MEMORIAL UNIVERSITY OF NEWFOUNDLAND
Three-year teaching term in Mechanical Engineering

The Department of Mechanical Engineering at Memorial University invites applications for a three-year teaching term position commencing in January 2018 or earliest thereafter. Applicants should hold an undergraduate degree as well as a PhD degree in mechanical engineering or in a related discipline. The successful candidate will be expected to register as a professional engineer in Newfoundland and Labrador.

The position (reference ENGI-2016-012) is a three-year teaching term position in mechanical engineering. Desired areas of teaching include a range of courses across mechanical engineering, particularly, but not limited to, thermal/fluids engineering (fluid mechanics, thermodynamics, heat transfer) and related equipment design courses. The successful candidate will be expected to effectively teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels and supervise student projects. Past teaching experience in the above areas is desirable.

Memorial University is Newfoundland and Labrador’s only university, and plays an integral role in the educational and cultural life of the province. Offering diverse undergraduate and graduate programs to over 18,000 students, Memorial provides a distinctive and stimulating environment for learning. St. John’s is a safe, friendly city with great historic charm, a vibrant cultural life, and easy access to a wide range of outdoor activities. For further information about Memorial, please visit www.mun.ca.

The deadline to receive applications is November 15, 2017. Candidates should forward an electronic application indicating the position to which they are applying in the subject line with the correct reference. Applications should include: (a) curriculum vitae, (b) a statement of teaching philosophy (one page), and (c) the names and complete contact information of three referees. All applications should be forwarded to:
