Teaching Opportunity - Spring 2017
Memorial University of Newfoundland
Department of Political Science – Law and Society course offerings

Subject to sufficient enrolment and budgetary restrictions, the Department of Political Science will appoint a Per Course Instructor (PCI) to teach Law and Society 1000 in the spring 2017 semester. A completed letter of application, along with an updated curriculum vitae, teaching dossier and the names and contact information of three referees should be submitted by Wednesday, March 1, 2017. All required information must be received before applications will be considered; applicants are responsible for ensuring that their application files are complete.

There will be one online section of Law & Society 1000.

Law, Democracy and Social Justice 1000 Law, Democracy and Social Justice examines the nature and aims of democracy and contemporary issues related to social justice through a law and society perspective.

Master’s degree in a related discipline (i.e., social sciences and humanities with a specialization in law) or law degree; demonstrated knowledge and expertise in the area of law and society, democracy and social justice; and demonstrated evidence of teaching at the undergraduate level is preferred.

The rate of pay is according to the LUMUN Collective Agreement.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority. Memorial University of Newfoundland is committed to employment equity and encourages applications from qualified women and men, visible minorities, aboriginal people and persons with disabilities.

Applications for the position described above should be sent to:
