

Research Grant Application Instructions

Memorial University Applicants

Graduate Students

Institute of Social and Economic Research

Research Grant Deadline Date

March 1

Research Grants (up to $8,000 each) are available to graduate students from Memorial University to help defray the costs of such items as travel, subsistence, and materials for carrying out a research project that fits under the mandate of the Institute of Social and Economic Research. Note: capital expenditures and travel to conferences and related expenses are not eligible for any ISER grants. As per the requirements of the Office of Dean of Humanities and Social Sciences, students may not hire and supervise research assistants or other employees. Therefore, the hiring of student and other research assistants (and associated costs such as their travel), and the contracting of other individuals as employees (e.g. translators, drone operators, boat operator) are not eligible for research grant funding for student applicants. If a student thesis project requires these budget items, their faculty supervisor must now apply for the research grant. Students may apply for funds to pay for technical services provided by incorporated companies or university labs that provide invoices (e.g. radiocarbon dating). For student thesis projects, the Smallwood Foundation and ISER normally limit any expenditures for employees or other services to individuals and companies providing essential fieldwork assistance or highly specialized skills.

Memorial faculty members are listed as the grant-holders for grants awarded to Memorial graduate students and are responsible for the financial administration of the funds and the supervision of the student applicant and any other team members on the project.

ISER Mandate: The purpose of the Institute of Social and Economic Research is to undertake, sponsor and publish social and economic research within such disciplines and in such parts of the world as are deemed of relevance to Newfoundland and Labrador and the broader Atlantic world.

Priority is given to members of the Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences. ISER defines a Memorial HSS applicant as “full-time and retired tenured and tenure-stream faculty members from Memorial’s Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences (HSS); instructors who currently hold a contractual or a per course appointment with HSS; students currently enrolled in HSS programs seeking funding for projects to be completed for these programs; staff working within HSS units; and faculty who are adjuncts or are cross- or joint-appointed to HSS units.”

Applications are evaluated by an Awards Panel according to their relevance to the mandate and the relative merits of the proposals and the applicants. The Awards Panel makes recommendations about funding to the ISER Executive Committee which makes the final decisions.

All funds must normally be spent within the year of the award. Extensions are only permitted in exceptional circumstances. After funds are awarded, extension requests (for the director's consideration) should be sent to iser@mun.ca. All Memorial faculty, staff, and students must submit their applications through the Memorial Researcher Portal by the internal deadline specified by their Faculty or School, in advance of the Institute's deadline. Each ISER grant application should be associated with a sole submission on the Memorial Researcher Portal. Units will submit these applications on applicants' behalf to ISER following departmental and faculty/school review and approval. Memorial applicants should check with their Grants Facilitation Officers about internal deadlines. For applicants from Memorial's Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, the internal deadline for review and Dean's Office sign-off is February 15. Additional information about the submission process can be found in the HSS Research Funding Tracker.

*Note: The same applicant will not normally be funded more than two times over a three-year period.
