Battle Harbour Historic Trust Collection, [198-]

- History
  Battle Harbour Historic Trust Incorporated is a registered charity dedicated to restoring, maintaining and promoting the village of Battle Harbour (a prominent former fishing settlement and administrative centre on Labrador’s south coast) as a historical site and tourist destination.

- Scope and content
  Historical video footage taken in and around Battle harbour.

- Acquisition
  The Battle Harbour Historic Trust maintains a small video collection, and in 2008, trust volunteers gave permission for one of their videos to be copied for the Labrador Institute by Mark Turner and Justin Blum.

- Processing
  Video was transferred to DVD by Mark Turner as part of the LIFVC initiative, 2008-2010, and converted to MPG/MP4 by Morgon Mills, 2011-2012. Original media are stored off-site.

- Scope and content
  Special Memories: “A Look Back” - Reflections of the Past is a compilation of video footage taken by S.M. Christian, a Newfoundland Ranger stationed at Battle Harbour between 1930 and 1949. The video was transferred to VHS by G.M. Media, a St. John’s company founded 1982 and operational until at least April 1990, based on a newspaper clipping in the Centre for Newfoundland Studies vertical files. (00:33:00) FV.001.F.A.003

Accessioned prior to 2010, description updated 2015.

- History
  Brian Kunz led an expedition into the Mealy Mountains in the late 1980s or early 1990s as part of an experiential education program for the Outdoor Programs Office at Dartmouth College, where as of 2015 he is the Deputy Director. He was accompanied by his wife, Lindsay Putnam, and several others.

- Scope and content
  Slides documenting an expedition conducted into the Mealy Mountains on cross-country skis. Also a photocopy of Kunz’s business card.

- Processing
  For conservation reasons, the slides have been transferred from their original two carousels into an archivally safe box. By the original numbering, the first carousel contained slides 1-80, and the second carousel began with slide 60A, then proceeded with slides 81-135. The title of the series is taken from the label on the original carousel boxes. All slides were digitized in summer 2015 by Samantha Mesher.

Christopher Wynes Fonds, 1966-1994

Photographs, 1966-1994
P. 1 CD, 8 pages of documentation [M6 D1]
E. 209 images (JPEG), 1 document (PDF) / 216 MB [conservation1/c_wynes]
EA. same [access1/c_wynes]

History
Chris Wynes was assistant medical officer to Dr. Anthony Paddon with the International Grenfell Association, from July 1966 to December 1967. Dr. Wynes's wife, Carol Wynes, was Dr. Paddon's secretary and the North West River hospital secretary during the same period. Dr. Wynes was stationed in North West River, but his work took him to diverse Labrador communities; and he documented several of these trips with his camera.

Scope and content
209 personal photographs of Christopher Wynes, predominantly taken in 1966-1967. The photographs were mostly taken in North West River, and portray a variety of subjects, documenting Wynes's experiences as a physician in Labrador. Many are of hospital life or of children patients; others are of Dr. Wynes himself or his wife or associates. Some document the realities of contemporary medical practice in Labrador, and several highlight modes of transportation (dog sleds, snowmobiles, aircraft, boats, ships, the North West River cable car, etc.). The photographs taken outside North West River depict a number of Labrador communities, including some which are no longer permanently inhabited, often from the air or from a wharf.

Acquisition
Dr. Wynes created and/or collected all photographs in this fonds, and scanned, numbered, and captioned them himself. He donated the images on CD as a single accession in May 2012.

Holdings
The caption sheet has been scanned to PDF and processed with optical character recognition software, and is searchable; but its contents are not reproduced here, as reformatting and editing remain necessary. The images and caption sheet are available in electronic format only.

Processing
Video was transferred to DVD by Mark Turner as part of the LIFVC initiative, 2008-2010, and converted to MPG/MP4 by Morgon Mills, 2011-2012. Original media are stored off-site.

History
The Labrador campuses of the College of the North Atlantic were once independently administered district vocational schools. In 1987 they became constituent parts of Labrador Community College, which was later renamed Labrador College, and in 1997, amalgamated into the College of the North Atlantic. As of 2015, the Labrador Institute is co-located with both the Labrador City and Happy Valley-Goose Bay campuses, and was also co-located with the college's Learning Centre in North West River (which closed in 2014).

Acquisition
Given to Mark Turner in 2010 by Karen Pottle-Fewer at the Labrador City campus of the College of the North Atlantic.

Processing
Video was transferred to DVD by Mark Turner as part of the LIFVC initiative, 2008-2010, and converted to MPG/MP4 by Morgon Mills, 2011-2012. Original media are stored off-site.

Elliott Merrick Collection, 1934-1998

History
Elliott Merrick (1905-1997) was an American writer who wrote extensively on Labrador, including the non-fiction narratives True North (1933), about an expedition he and his wife undertook with trapper John Michelin, and Northern Nurse (1942), the dramatized story of his wife’s career in Labrador, as well as a novel, Frost and Fire (1939) and a book of shorter prose, The Long Crossing and Other Labrador Stories (1992).

Acquisition
Donated to the Labrador Institute by Lawrence Millman, 15 June 2016.

Scope and content
The following summary was provided by the donor:

“Perhaps no 20th century author provided a better window on Labrador for the outside world than Elliott Merrick. Writer-ethnographer Lawrence Millman was Merrick’s friend and unofficial agent during the 1990s and succeeded in getting three of Merrick’s long out-of-print books back into print - True North, Northern Nurse, and Green Mountain Farm. He also wrote introductions to each of these books.

Millman’s collection of Elliott Merrick material consists of the following:
1. Letters from Merrick. Subjects include Millman’s own northern travels, the reprints of Merrick’s books, Merrick’s sailing trips, and Millman’s visits to Merrick’s home in rural North Carolina with his significant other Carol.
2. Published and unpublished stories and articles written by Merrick.
3. Photographs of Labrador mostly taken from books and photographs of Merrick in recent years. Also several Merrick obituaries.
4. Miscellaneous. Items include copies of Merrick’s talks to the Wilderness Canoe Association, random notes (one quotes Mina Paddon on Dillon Wallace), and a cassette with Merrick talking about Northern Nurse.”
Processing
Materials have been rehoused, but Millman’s arrangement has been maintained. The photographs and audiocassette were digitized for use by Millman in a talk on Merrick at the Labrador Interpretation Centre in North West River, July 2016.

- 8 May 1989, 3 page handwritten and typed letter to Elizabeth Johns of the University of Maine Press, negotiating the editing and publication contract for what eventually became The Long Crossing and Other Stories. (photocopy)
- 7 October 1941, letter to Merrick from Maxwell Perkins of Scribner’s, accepting Northern Nurse
- 29 March 1994, 3 page handwritten letter from Merrick to “Mr. Taylor.” Mentions an enclosed clipping (not retained) and discusses also his early experiences in publishing, e.g. at Scribners. (photocopy)
- 5 March 1986, 6 page handwritten letter from Merrick to Seymour Bassett, describing at length the Merricks’ recent life circumstances and decision to move from Vermont. (photocopy)
- A typed postscript to an unknown letter, written by Elliott Merrick, describing True North in his own words. Marginalia by Merrick indicate that he sent it to Millman for use in preparing the introduction to the new edition
- 1994 comments by Merrick on part of Millman’s introduction to Northern Nurse, along with Merrick’s description of his unpublished sailing stories
- A transcribed quotation from Mina Paddon on Dillon Wallace and his failed attempt to install a memorial plaque for Hubbard
- 11-page typescript of Merrick’s 1994 address to the Wilderness Canoe Association, on his experiences in Labrador
- 8-page typescript of Merrick’s 1996 address to the Wilderness Canoe Association
- An undated 2-page explanation by Merrick of why he did not remain in Labrador, despite his love for it
- An undated jocular note, by Merrick, on the author-publisher relationship
  “About the city man who goes for nature…”. Undated 2-page typescript of an address by Merrick to the Wilderness Canoe Conference in Toronto, with a marginal note by Merrick to Millman indicating that he should consider the text when writing
  “Reunion 1996,” a brief typescript of a speech made by Merrick at the 1996 Merrick family reunion
- A 2-sided cassette recording Elliott Merrick speaking about Northern Nurse (29:19).

Erik Sheer Fonds, 1978

Torngat Mountain Expedition, 1978
P. 415 slides, 3 CDs, 2 pages of documentation [M4 D1]
E. 799 images (JPEG), 1 document (PDF) / 31.5 MB [conservation1/sheer]
EA. same [access1/sheer]

History
From documentation within the fonds: “These photographs were taken by Erik Sheer in the course of the 1978 Torngat Mountain Expedition, which lasted from August 4 to September 4, 1978. Accounts of the activities of the 1978 TME appear in the Canadian Alpine Journal, the Report of the 1978 Torngat Mountain Expedition to the Newfoundland Department of Tourism, and elsewhere.”

Scope and Content
Approximately 415 images of a 1978 expedition to the Torngat Mountains.

Acquisition
From documentation within the fonds: “Erik Sheer was killed in a highway accident in Norway in June, 1979, when he was a little less than 22 years old. His slide collection has been donated to the Goose Bay branch of Memorial University by his father, Frank Sheer, of High River, Alberta, at the suggestion of Richard Bill, Ottawa, with the cooperation and assistance of his friends in Ottawa and Kingston.”

Processing
Around 2001, the slides were used by Cy Bird of the Department of National Defence for orientation purposes. Bird scanned the slides and stored the images on CD as low-resolution JPEGs, transcribing his filenames from the captions written on the slides themselves.

Holdings
The series headings below are taken from the original documentation enclosed within the accession, whereas image descriptions are filenames from the Cy Bird CDs, slightly reformatted for consistency. In many cases there are multiple scans of a single slide, usually with different imaging parameters, and in a few instances two distinct images, with distinct captions, have the same slide number. The listing below reflects the scanned images, and has not been verified against the original slides.

Hettasch Family Collection, 1820-1981

History
The Hettasch family served as Moravian missionaries in northern Labrador from 1898 to 1985. Notable contributors to Labrador’s documentary heritage include Reverend Paul Hettasch, his son S.P. (Siegfried Paul) Hettasch, and his daughter Kate Hettasch.

Recordings

Acquisition
These items were given to Memorial by Kate Hettasch in 1981.

Processing
Sound recordings digitized by summer student Robert Jong, 2010. Video was transferred to DVD by Mark Turner as part of the LIFVC initiative, 2008-2010, and converted to MPG/MP4 by Morgon Mills, 2011-2012. The original cassette is stored off-site.

Narrated Video Footage, [196-]

P. 1 DVD [M29 C1]
E. 1 video recording (MPEG) / 1.72 GB [conservation3/hettasch]
EA. same [access1/hettasch]

Scope and Content
A compilation of silent clips from the Macmillan collection (also see those holdings), documenting the way of life in coastal Labrador, dubbed over with narration by Reverend Siegfried Hettasch. An interlocutor, possibly Tony Williamson, is occasionally heard. (00:50:35.)

Greetings to You, Dear Friends

P. 1 audiocassette [M29 C1]
E. 1 audio file (WAV) / 31.9 MB [conservation3/hettasch]
Hettasch Family Collection, 1820-1981

EA. same [access1/hettasch]

Scope and Content
A recording of Kate Hettasch, addressed to supporters of Bowdoin College and the Macmillan’s contributions to Moravian efforts and community development on Labrador’s north coast. Describes life at the mission school funded by the Macmillans. Appears to have accompanied a slide show (advancing slides are audible in the background).

Photographs

History
The Hettasch family contributed actively to Labrador’s documentary heritage for decades, through teaching, service, photography, and the dissemination of educational materials. They both created and collected photographs, and some items in this collection were likely received by Siegfried and/or Kate Hettasch from other sources—for instance, perhaps Ross and Joan King, whose photograph collection contains some overlapping content. Documentation within the collection also credits some photos to E.S. Burch, Jr.

Acquisition
The “photographs” sub-collection, so named for the preponderance of its contents and its characterization by the donor, was given into the Institute’s possession by former Director Carol Brice-Bennett upon her retirement from Labrador-Grenfell Health and professional life in 2015. She had been holding the items for Siegfried Paul Hettasch for some years subsequent to his sister Kate’s death in 1987, and prior to Siegfried’s own death in 2007. Siegfried’s daughter Hannie (Hettasch) Fitzgerald was contacted once the items were in hand, and it was agreed that the Institute would digitize the materials and share copies with Them Days Inc. before forwarding the originals to the Memorial University Archive for addition to the Hettasch family papers there.

Processing
All items were digitized summer 2015 by Samantha Mesher, and thereafter sent to Memorial University’s Archives & Special Collections in St. John’s. Very preliminary descriptive notes were taken during this process, and these are reproduced here. The arrangement presented below is not very sure; it reflects how the items were organized upon acquisition, but internal indicators are inconsistent, and there is no reason to believe the arrangement is original or deliberate. The “Kate Hettasch” and “S.P. Hettasch” series titles in particular should not be assumed to indicate authorship.

Hudson’s Bay Company Archive Collection, 1920

History
The Hudson’s Bay Company operated 21 posts in Labrador, and played a central role in Labrador’s history from first contact to the middle of the twentieth century. The company’s history in Canada was celebrated in a silent documentary commissioned in 1919 to commemorate the 250th anniversary of the HBC in 1920. See documentation within the holdings for further details.

P. 1 DVD, 4 pages of documentation [M7 D1]
E. 1 video file (MPEG) / 213 MB [conservation1/hbc]
EA. same [access1/hbc]
Scope and content
One DVD and associated documentation. This particular version of the footage is from a cut entitled “The Heritage of Adventure,” and was created by H.M. Wyckoff and Bill Derr. The footage runs 10:26.

Acquisition
Material obtained from James Gorton at the Hudson's Bay Company Archives in Winnipeg, where the original 35 mm film reels have resided since August 2011, when it was returned to the HBCA by the British Film Institute National Archive in London.

Post Records, 1774-1907
P. 2 CDs [M7 D1]
E. 27 documents (PDF) / 765 MB [conservation1/hbc]
EA. same [access1/hbc]
Scope and content
Four reels of digitized HBC post records, including post journals, account books, and inward correspondence for the posts at Cul-de-Sac, Fort Nascopie, Michikamau House, Nachvak, North West River, and Winokapau.

Acquisition
Material ordered from the HCBA for permanent acquisition by the Labrador Institute Archive and immediate use by Them Days Inc., in the preparation of a special issue (37.1) on the Grand River, published in 2013. Reels were selected for digitization and delivery based on content relating to posts of interest. Given the absence of relevant material on reel 1M54, that reel was likely ordered or delivered in error. Material on reel 1M154, which includes five volumes of Winokapau post journals, according to the HBCA online finding aid. On the other hand, additional incidentally acquired Labrador material also appears on the reels ordered, including material for North West River and Nachvak.

Processing
Reels were digitized for the HBCA by Critical Control as PDFs, with each image on the reel a separate file; these PDFs were numbered and stored in folders corresponding to the reels, and packaged on two CDs. The reels contain much material that is irrelevant to Labrador, and the Labrador Institute’s electronic transfers therefore only include selected material. For clarity and convenience, the transferred PDF images have been combined to produce a single digital file for each original, physical document at the HBCA. To restore their original arrangement, these have been ordered by HBCA document number rather than by reel.

History
Under the Sun: The Two Worlds of the Innu was a documentary film produced and directed by Ken Kirby and released by the BBC in 1994. From the distributor: “The Two Worlds of the Innu. In the villages of Davis inlet, an isolated island outpost off the Labrador coast, alcoholism, sexual abuse and suicide are rife. Last year alone one in three adults tried to kill themselves. In January 1993 six children attempted suicide. This documentary in the series that looks at unfamiliar cultures shows how the resettlement villages - set up by the Canadian government in the 60s for the native Indian Innu people - have failed in their aim to turn the Innu into "modern" Canadians. All that has been achieved is the near destruction of the traditional Innu culture. In the film two Innu families talk about their personal tragedies, the intense pressure to change their way of life and their decision to return to the traditional hunting grounds of the interior to rediscover their lost customs, their identity and their dignity. Producer Ken Kirby, Editor Alan Bookbinder.

International Grenfell Association Collection, 1932-1962

Video Footage, 1934-1962
P. 8 DVDs [M17 E1]
E. 8 video files (MPEG), 8.27 GB MB [conservation1/grenfell]
History
The Grenfell Mission provided privately-funded health care to Newfoundland fishermen and others in coastal Labrador beginning in 1893, with the establishment of a hospital at Battle Harbour. Later its operations expanded northwest into central Labrador and south along the coast to northern Newfoundland, and the International Grenfell Association, proper, was incorporated in 1914, to support not only health care, but also education, religious life, and social welfare. The IGA evolved in partnership with provincial medical authorities throughout the twentieth century, and today its role is primarily the awarding of grants, drawing on its various international endowments, to programs and initiatives in various areas prenent to public welfare.

Acquisition
Mark Turner suggests in a 2010 document that the material may have come to LiNSIC via Memorial Extension, but the videos seem to have ultimately been copied from originals at the Provincial Archives in St. John’s. For further information about film relating to Sir Wilfred Grenfell or the International Grenfell Association, contact Grenfell Historic Properties in St. Anthony.

Processing
Video was transferred to DVD by Mark Turner as part of the LIFVC initiative, 2008-2010, and converted to MPG/MP4 by Morgon Mills, 2011-2012. Original media are stored off-site.

Holdings
Raw and partially edited video clips, mostly black and white and silent, with occasional title cards (e.g. “The End”), apparently representing production footage for promotional or documentary films about International Grenfell Association operations (Box 1). Includes footage of all facets of life in coastal Labrador, including leisure activities, games, livestock, church services, coastal travel by boat, etc. This material has not yet been fully described.

2. Stanley Kluzek; Report from Down North; and Raw Footage, Tape 1. Three segments. The first, labelled “Conclusion,” is taken from Stanley Kluzek’s video record of his travels in Africa, Hawaii, and Fiji. The second is “Report from Down North: The Grenfell Mission Today,” a promotional video commissioned by the International Grenfell Association (also included as a separate item within this fonds). This is the only segment of the video with sound. Finally, the item includes footage of ship travel along coastal Labrador and northern Newfoundland (also included separately as Tape 1 of the raw footage series in this fonds). Original provincial catalogue numbers: NFTSA#8409-74 & 77 (Kluzek footage); NFTSA#75-5-3 (Report from Down North); and NFTSA#2733 (third segment). (01:02:10) FV.001.F.B.0003

Scope and content
Promotional and educational films about iron ore mining in western Labrador, or the mining and steel production industries more generally. The majority of these items were commissioned by the Iron Ore Company of Canada; others are third-party productions. These last have been included because they were originally obtained either from the IOC, or in the context of studying IOC activities.

Acquisition and Archival History
Some of these items were digitized from originals held by the Labrador City campus of the College of the North Atlantic by Labrador Institute researcher Mark Turner in 2008; others were already in the possession of the Labrador Institute at that time, having been acquired directly from IOC during previous partnerships.

Processing
Video was transferred to DVD by Mark Turner as part of the LIFVC initiative, 2008-2010, and converted to MPG/MP4 by Morgon Mills, 2011-2012. Original media are stored off-site.

History
James Andersen (1919-2011) was known for much of his life as “Uncle Jim.” He captured still and moving images at home in Makkovik and elsewhere in Labrador for over 70 years.

Scope and content
Videos by various producers celebrating Andersen’s life and photography, or exploring Labrador’s traditional culture through his work.

Acquisition and Archival History
Acquired by Mark Turner from Andersen. The James Andersen Collection purchased by the Nunatsiavut Government in 2002 contains most of Andersen’s still photographs and some of his videos. It is housed at the Provincial Archives and at the White Elephant Museum in Makkovik. After Andersen’s death in 2011, much of the material in his extensive personal fonds was processed by a partnership amongst Andersen’s heirs, Nunatsiavut’s Torngâsok Cultural Centre, and the Digital Archive Initiative at Memorial, with leadership from Mark Turner (then no longer an employee of the Labrador Institute). This material now resides in digital format at the DAI, Torngâsok, and Them Days.

Processing
Video was transferred to DVD by Mark Turner as part of the LIFVC initiative, 2008-2010, and converted to MPG/MP4 by Morgon Mills, 2011-2012. Original media are stored off-site.

E. 137 images (TIFF) / 4.83 GB [conservation1/iserhoff]
EA. 3 documents (PDF) / 37.4 MB [access1/iserhoff]
Accessioned 2016, description updated 2016

History
Joseph C. Iserhoff of Missinabie, Ontario, is known in Labrador mainly for his guiding of Mina Hubbard from North West River to the mouth of the George River on Ungava Bay, along with George Elson, Job Chapies, and Gilbert Blake.

Scope and Content
Three diaries kept by Iserhoff mainly in 1902, documenting daily life and employment, and also recording detailed information from geographical surveys. The third diary also documents the 1905 expedition in Labrador, and will be of especial interest to most Labradorian researchers.

Acquisition
Diaries loaned to the Labrador Institute for digitization by Memorial University’s Archives and Special Collections. Donated to Memorial by professor and Mina Hubbard researcher Roberta Buchanan.

Processing
Digitized and described by Morgon Mills, 2016. Electronic conservation copies are original TIFF scans of diary pages; access copies are PDF compilations.

Holdings
The holdings information below was originally written by Morgon Mills for Memorial’s Digital Archives Initiative.
1. “Book A.” [1902] Iserhoff’s diary for February to August 1902, kept mostly at Missinabie and Wawa City. Focuses on his employment and daily life, with reflections on labour and society in northern Ontario. Also contains a brief biography of Tom Swanson, an HBC post servant and boat builder at Brunswick House, signed by Swanson and Iserhoff.
3. “1905 Labrador.” Primarily Iserhoff’s expedition diary, documenting the 1905 trip led by Mina Hubbard, for which Iserhoff was a hired guide, along with George Elson, Job Chapies, and local Labradorian Gilbert Blake. Also contains partial surveying logs for July through September 1902.

Joseph Townley Fonds, 1901

Photos of Eskimo in Labrador, 1901

P. 1 album [S3]
E. 31 images (TIFF), 405 MB [conservation1/townley]
EA. 31 images (JPEG), 2 MB [access1/townley]

History
Joseph Townley (1865-1929) was born in Dukinfield, Chesire in 1865 and came to Labrador upon ordination as a Moravian deacon in 1891. He married Mary Hannah Ridgway in 1893 at Nain, was ordained presbyter in 1921, and left Labrador in 1924.

Scope and Content
One album, “Photos of Eskimo in Labrador, 1901,” containing 31 photographs (mostly captioned) of life and customs in northern Labrador, as perceived by Moravian missionaries, including church gatherings, mission buildings (Hebron, Okak), and traditional activities (fishing, sealing) and technologies (kayak, snow house, dog sled).

Archival history
Provenance is speculative. The grounds for associating the material with Joseph Townley have not been recorded, though one print is labelled “Townley 199.”

Acquisition
Album purchased at a used book store in St. John’s by Tony Williamson, former director of the Labrador Institute, some time prior to his retirement from Memorial University in 1996.

Processing
Digitized summer 2013 by Catherine Emmens; described December 2014 by Morgon Mills.
Photographs
The original album title and captions have been transcribed. The numbering matches the electronic filenames, beginning with 1 and incrementing by page, with “a” and “b” in case of multiple images per page. Quotation marks are original.

Labrador Creative Arts Festival Collection, 1979-2015

History
The Labrador Creative Arts Festival has been an annual event since 1975, with the exception of a one-year hiatus in 1984. It was originally conceived by Tim Borlase as an initiative of the Labrador East Integrated School Board, but is now organized independently. The festival’s volunteer organizing committee employs one permanent staff member and maintains a small office in Happy Valley-Goose Bay, from which the annual festival is coordinated. Each year, usually in November, schools from across Labrador are invited to send delegations to Happy Valley-Goose Bay to perform plays written by the students themselves, and to participate in workshops. Visiting artists are also invited from inside and outside Labrador, to perform and to provide instruction in their arts, both in Happy Valley-Goose Bay and locally in communities throughout Labrador.

Processing
Video was transferred to DVD by Mark Turner as part of the LIFVC initiative, 2008-2010, and converted to MPG/MP4 by Morgan Mills, 2011-2012. Original media are stored off-site. Electronic file names are included below to clarify correspondence with descriptions and DVDs, as many titles overlap.

Acquisition
The Labrador Institute has a long history of involvement with the festival through former Director Tim Borlase and long-time Associate Director Martha MacDonald, both of whom have sat on the festival’s organizing committee for many years. Most of the archive’s holdings were deposited by Tim Borlase during his time as Director. The LI Library also has copies of annual script collections published by the LCAF, and the archive formerly held the annual scrapbooks for the festival. These are now housed at the LCAF office on Hamilton River Road.

E. 14 video files (MPEG) / 18.2 GB [conservation2/li/events/torngat_coop]
EA. same [access1/li/events/torngat_coop]

Scope and content

Unedited video footage of three meetings, recorded by LINS presumably because of involvement with the Torngat Coop through the Labrador Fisheries Co-operative Education Program (see those holdings), itself an outgrowth of Memorial’s long-term support of economic development in the Labrador fishery, through the Extension Service (see those holdings as well for earlier footage). The first meeting was held at LINS between representatives from the Torchgat Coop and the provincial and federal governments, sometime between 1980-1984; the second meeting was held in 1984 to discuss the proposed Northern Fisheries Development Corporation; and the details of the third are unknown.

History
From 2010-2013, the Labrador Institute offered a single-cohort, 4-year BSW program to Nunatsiavut beneficiaries in partnership with the Memorial University School of Social Work and the Nunatsiavut Government. 33 students enrolled in January 2010, and 19 were admitted into the School of Social Work. 17 of these graduated on June 14, 2013, while the remaining 2 finished their studies later on at Memorial University’s St. John’s campus.

Scope and content
Photographs and video of the IBSW graduation.

Archival history
Produced on contract for the Nunatsiavut Government’s Post-Secondary Student Support Program, one of the partners in the IBSW program delivery. The photographs were taken by freelancer Bonnie Learning, and the video was produced by the OKâlaKatiget Society.

Acquisition
Fall 2013. Photographs were supplied to the Labrador Institute on CD (“BSW Grad June 14, 2013 Original Pics”) by IBSW Student Coordinator Nathaniel Pollock, and video was purchased from the OKâlaKatiget Society.

Processing
35 photographs were selected and captioned for promotional purposes by Morgon Mills, fall 2013, and transferred to electronic holdings. The DVD was also converted to mp4 for electronic holdings. The video and remaining photos are undescibed.

Accessioned 2015, description updated 2015.

History
It Can Be Done! was produced in the fall of 2014 by Tim Borlase, in partnership with the Labrador Institute (Martha MacDonald and Morgan Mills) and the Labrador Creative Arts Festival (Fiona Andersen), with funding from the New Brunswick Arts Board (an inter-provincial initiative, Borlase being resident in Moncton). Layout and design were by Morgan Mills. The cover reads “It Can Be Done! How to Create a Community Play: A handbook featuring scripts by Mud Lake Elementary School as presented at Labrador Creative Arts Festivals from 1979-2010.”

Scope and content
Holdings include a PDF copy of the handbook and 31 image files collected specifically for the purpose. Two additional images in the Labrador School Board collection were also digitized for the handbook. Most of the collected images were taken from LCAF Scrapbooks by Tim Borlase in November 2014. The provenances of the others are given below.

Holdings
An electronic copy of the It Can Be Done handbook.

History
A bi-monthly film screening series, intended to promote the Labrador Institute Library and Archive and to exhibit, discuss and discover historical and contemporary video about Labrador and its people. Funded by the Labrador Institute and curated by former Program Coordinator, Mark Turner. Run in partnership with the Labrador Film Foundation throughout that organization’s lifetime, 2012-2014. Coordinated first by Jon Beale, with Saturday screenings at the Labrador Friendship Centre, then by Morgon Mills from January 2013, with weekday screenings at the College of the North Atlantic.

Scope and content
Program notes for all screenings, and promotional posters from July 2014 onward.

Archival history
Original materials produced for the Labrador Institute. Acquisition: Continuous, through the life of the project.

Processing
Retained in native electronic format.

An album entitled “Battle Harbour June 2002,” containing 24 uncaptioned photographs taken by former Labrador Institute Director Tim Borlase during the SOLARI project, which is described as follows on the Labrador Institute’s ‘Project’ webpage:

The Southern Labrador Research Initiative (SOLARI) came into being as a result of a southern Labrador research workshop held in Battle Harbour in June 2002.

The workshop was funded by ACOA, Parks Canada, the Battle Harbour Historic Trust, Memorial University, the Newfoundland and Labrador Museum, the Department of Fisheries and Oceans and the Labrador Institute. Attending were Zonal Boards, community members and invited researchers [e.g. Barb Neis of Coasts Under Stress, whale expert John Lien, fisheries scientist Joe Rublevsky, archaeologist Selma Barkham, etc.]. "SOLARI's principal objective is to help communities between L'Anse au Clair and Cartwright identify opportunities where research might perform a significant role in shaping the economic base and economic diversity of the region.

Communities have identified priority areas for research and researchers have developed proposals in the fields of biology, biopsychology, forestry, history, medicine, sociology, and oceanography. Many researchers have brought grants and other resources to specific projects and the Labrador Institute has been active in preparing proposals for top up funding that will enable projects to be fully funded.

Research focusing on the further study of whales, the region's rich archaeological history, effective management of wildlife and natural resources, transportation and the rich natural history are areas identified as important to the region.

Scope and Content

A series of lectures by linguist José Mailhot on Algonkian languages and grammars, including Cri, Montagnais, and Naskapi (i.e. Innu-Aimun). Produced by the Newfoundland and Labrador Department of Education, 12 September 1980, in association with the Labrador Institute of Northern Studies.

Processing

Video was transferred to DVD by Mark Turner as part of the LIFVC initiative, 2008-2010, and converted to MPG/MP4 by Morgon Mills, 2011-2012. Original media are stored off-site.

Holdings

- Tape 1: Survey of languages. Mailhot surveys languages derived from the proto-Algonquin family and focuses in on the dialects that the series will actually cover, including Cri, Montagnais, and Naskapi. Note that portions of the picture cut out, but the audio seems to be continuous, and due to tape quality issues the program has been divided into 2 titles with a slight overlap between them. (01:05:41). In English and Innu-Aimun. FV.001.A.I.0001
- Tape 2: Sounds of Montagnais and surface and phonetic rules. This tape is composed of 2 units, including “Sounds of Montagnais” and “Surface and Phonetic Rules.” (01:01:22). In English and Innu-Aimun. FV.001.A.I.0002
- Tape 3: Principles and history of written Montagnais. Mailhot delivers the unit “Principles and History of Written Montagnais.” (00:32:00). In English and Innu-Aimun. FV.001.A.I.0003
• Tape 5: Sentence practice. Mailhot leads a group of students in sentence practice. (00:51:24). In English and Innu-Aimun. FV.001.A.I.0005
• Tape 6: Parts of Speech. Mailhot presents units covering Parts of Speech, including pronouns, verbs, adverbs, nouns, as well as plural and locative forms. (00:32:33). In English and Innu-Aimun. FV.001.A.I.0006
• Tape 7: Nouns: locative, possessive, relative. The unit on nouns continues with locative forms, moves on to possessive forms and relative nouns. (00:58:54). In English and Innu-Aimun. FV.001.A.I.0007
• Tape 8: Obviative nouns. Mailhot’s lessons continue with the obviative form of nouns. (00:28:48). In English and Innu-Aimun. FV.001.A.I.0008
• Tape 9: Verbs. Mailhot and her students cover categories of verbs, including transitive, intransitive, animate, and inanimate, as well as verb orders and syntax. (01:00:47). In English and Innu-Aimun. FV.001.A.I.0009
• Tape 10: Preverbs and verb paradigms. Lecture dealing with preverbs and verb paradigms. (00:31:38). In English and Innu-Aimun. FV.001.A.I.0010
• Tape 11: Conjugation and conjunction; Words and word stems. Mailhot lectures on conjugation and conjunction of verbs, imperatives, and begins a lecture on the meaning of words and word stems. (00:58:10). In English and Innu-Aimun. FV.001.A.I.0011
• Tape 12: Word meanings, continued; Conclusion. The lecture on word meanings from tape 11 continues. The students present Mailhot with a tea doll in appreciation of her instruction. (00:27:24). In English and Innu-Aimun. FV.001.A.I.0012

Teacher Education Program Labrador, <1999
P. 72 photographs [M1 A8]
E/EA. None

72 colour photographs of a TEPL event in Hopedale entitled the “Teacher Assistants Seminar Evaluation,” held at Amos Comenius Memorial School sometime prior to October 1999, as recollected by Sharon Edmunds, one of the event participants. Many of the photographs do not depict the event per se, but present a valuable record of the sights of Hopedale.

• Fly North Not East. Three fragments and apparent production footage for a narrated documentary about the life of Bert R. J. Hassell, with a focus on his time in the north. Production footage was taken on and around the Goose Bay air base during World War II. Includes shots of aircraft lining up on the runway, refueling, and taking off; a military parade and ceremonial salute of the U.S. flag; various buildings, including the base chapel; pigs; and aerial footage of islands. “Fish” Hassell, so named after his survival of a crash-landing in Lake Michigan, was an American pilot and aviation pioneer, famous during his lifetime for an ill-fated early attempt to fly the Great Circle Route from North America to Europe via Greenland, rather than straight across the Atlantic. Later in life he joined the USAF and served as a commander at the American base in Goose Bay. He also served the U.S. military and worked as a civilian in Iceland, Greenland, and elsewhere in the north. - Shamanism and the Sweat Lodge, 1999. Two video productions produced by Phillip Nuna and Ted Ostrowski for the Innу Nation in 1999, and packaged together. The first video is approximately 16 minutes long, and features Pien Penashue discussing the Innу tradition of shamanism, including the reverence of animal masters. The second video is about 7 minutes long, and features Dominic Pokue, talking first about the sweat lodge, and later about traditional life more generally. Both videos are in Innу-Aimun, with English subtitles. (00:23:33.)
- Pien Upunmun: Pien’s Dream, 2005. The offshoot of two exhibits at the Rooms, entitled Pien Ashtunu: Pien Builds a Canoe (a physical exhibit) and Tipatshimuna: Innу Stories from the Land (a virtual exhibit hosted online at www.tipatshimuna.ca), which were themselves the product of collaborations between the museum, the provincial Department of Tourism, Culture & Recreation, Heritage Canada, the Innу Nation, and Innу Mikun (sponsor). The video itself is a documentary, produced by CBC with the help of a number of Innу and other community volunteers (credited individually onscreen), chronicling Pien Penashue’s construction of a wooden canoe. The first 3.5 minutes are of still photographs set to Innу-Aimun music by Meshikamau; the next 4.5 are of Pien speaking to the camera (in Innу-Aimun, with English subtitles); and the video ends around 9 minutes, after some credits. The remainder of the tape is blank. (00:14:02.)
- A promotional video for the Access North Labrador 2002 provincial government initiative, which funded a series of exhibitions and events throughout the region. (00:04:33)

Labrador Resources Advisory Council Collection, 1978

History
The Labrador Resources Advisory Council was founded at Cartwright in 1976, with community representation from across the region and provincial government funding arising out of the Commission on Labrador completed in 1974. The council aimed to guide resource development in Labrador through research and dialogue, and was heavily influenced by the methods of MUN Extension, whose director Don Snowden had led the Commission on Labrador, and whose staff attended, documented, and participated in LRAC meetings. The council’s funding was cut in 1981.

Acquisition
Upon the LRAC’s demise, its information holdings and many of its records fell to MUN Extension in Happy Valley-Goose Bay. Library materials and some archival items were then included in LINSIC upon its formation in 1982.

History
From 1979-1981 the Labrador Resources Advisory Council (LRAC) and the Canadian federal Department of Energy, Mines and Resources administered a $2.5 million survey program, OLABS, to provide baseline information and as part of an environmental assessment process prior to offshore petroleum development in the Labrador Sea. This project was funded by a consortium of oil companies headed by Total-Eastcan, and including the then-crown corporation, Petro-Canada. Various parties were involved in the research, including researchers from several universities, the Canadian Wildlife Service, and independent consultants hired by representatives of the petroleum industry. One of the projects funded by OLABS was Bounty of a Barren Coast (see the Labrador Institute Collection).

Labrador School Board Collection, 1977-2002
Accessioned 2002-2005, description updated 2013

History
The Labrador School Board was formed by the Schools Act, 1997, from an amalgamation of Labrador West Integrated School Board, Labrador East Integrated School Board, and the Labrador Roman Catholic School Board. The board persisted as an independent entity until 2013, when it was itself amalgamated into the Newfoundland and Labrador English School District.

Archival History
Former Labrador Institute director Tim Borlase (2002-2005) had held various positions within the Labrador East Integrated School Board since 1974, and during that time had collected many materials related to school board activities, and particularly to curriculum development, on one hand, and the Labrador Creative Arts Festival, on the other. Many of these materials were transferred informally into the Labrador Institute’s collection over the years of his directorship, and school board curriculum developers have consulted them here ever since. Because of the difficulty in differentiating between Borlase’s independent work for the arts festival and that done on behalf of the school board, all LCAF materials have been considered part of a separate LCAF collection (and since the establishment of permanent LCAF premises, many of those materials have been given into the care of LCAF staff). The remaining materials collected by Borlase from the school board are included here.

Processing
The original arrangement of the materials has been lost, and so sub-series have been organized according to apparent function, into three broad categories: (1) series documenting day-to-day operations and activities; (2) student work; and (3) curriculum resources. Before the integration of the Labrador Institute Library with Memorial Libraries and the creation of the Labrador Institute Archive, some archival LEISB materials, and particularly curriculum resources, were catalogued in the library system. Many of these have since been removed from the library catalogue and accessioned into the archive; but library stamps, call number labels and bar codes may remain.

E. 137 images (TIFF) / 703 MB [conservation1/lsb/operations/glimpse]
EA. 137 images (JPEG) / 30.7 MB [access1/lsb/operations/glimpse]

Scope and content
A slideshow designed to introduce the Labrador East District, i.e., the catchment area for the Labrador East Integrated School Board, covering roughly from Nain to Cartwright along the coast, and also the Lake Melville area. Includes a carousel of 137 slides and two descriptive documents: one corresponding to the arrangement of slides in the carousel, and one providing more detailed talking points about each slide, in a slightly different order. The latter notes are credited to L. Anderson and D. Young, and describe 140 slides in total. There are also approximately 150 additional, duplicate slides.

Sunset

A Coastal Trip. We prepare very early in the morning for a coastal trip as Labrador Airways leaves at dawn.

In the summer and fall the Bonavista or some other coastal boat will make a weekly trip.

Rigolet

Our first port of call as we travel out Lake Melville is Rigolet.

Northern Lights Academy

Norhern Lights Academy situated at one end of the community stands proud against the winter snow.

Approximately 100 children will attend these hallowed halls of learning.

The school has no gym so physical education classes are outdoors year round.

The I.O.D.E provide nutritious snacks prepared here by teacher assistants.

Wood smoke captured by the frozen air - evidence of a very cold day.

The next morning early we leave for Cartwright.

Flying over rivers rich with salmon and trout we head for Cartwright.

Cartwright

Cartwright was founded in 1755 as a lumber and fishing station.

Its sheltered harbour lies protected from the Atlantic Ocean.

Henry Gordon Academy

Henry Gordon Academy is a large school with K-12 in attendance.

The school houses 200 students and 14 teachers

Teachers who on weekends like to go off - on a fish or hunt for geese - ducks or the occasional partridge

Winds can gust as high as 150 km. As the fall approaches, houses must sometimes be tied down.

Sea planes land on the harbour to pick up passengers for the South Coast.

Paradise River

21 miles from Cartwright is the tiny community of Paradise River with its population of 105 at latest count.

Its houses are built along the side of the river bank.

The teachers’ residence lies next to the school.

Teachers in the past have been able to raise chickens their food supply.

St. George Elementary

The two room school currently has a student population of 13 students from K-IX with a teaching staff of 2.

Plane flying north

Flying north we pass over the winding river - and sparsely treed flat land

Monkey Mountain looms to the North as we near Makkovik

Makkovik

Makkovik lies in a bay off the Atlantic Ocean - or “Labrador Sea”?

In winter one might see more than clothes hanging out to dry.

One of the older residents chops his daily wood supply.

J.C Erhardt Memorial School

John Christian Erhardt Memorial school has an enrolment of approx. 100 students in K-12 and professional staff of 10-12 teachers with two native student teachers.

It does not have a gym and physical education classes are held out of doors, when weather permits.

Some of its teachers are housed in the residence close to the school.

As all children in coastal communities they enjoy outdoor education.

Skiing provides an excellent winter recreation as this young member of the ski team exhibits.

Our taxi arrives at the runway ready for the journey to Hopedale.

Flying North

The terrain now becomes more mountainous.

Hopedale

As we fly closer, black towers appear on the hills.

The remains of the USAF site built by the Americans in the 50’s

Hopedale located on a rocky high-hilled peninsula has a populations of approx. 450.

The only church, Moravians was built in the 1900’s [actually 1800’s] by the missionaries whose history in the community dates back to the early 1700’s [1782]

The residents of Hopedale are roughly divided into groups. White settlers

The Inuit who were resettled from Hebron in 1959.

and villagers - the original peoples with Inuit blood (ancestry)

Mail arrives when weather permits - Hopedale does not have a landing strip - thus is dependent on water in summer and ice in Winter

Innu of Labrador, Past... Present... Future, 1999
P. 4 cm text [M5 A31]
E/EA. none

Scope and content
A school project with appended resources, mainly printed from www.innu.ca. By “George Michelin [Age 11] Our Lady Queen of Peace School [Teacher...Mrs. V. White.]” The creation date may be approximate; it is repeated here from the former LINSIC record.

Under the direction of Tim Borlase, the Labrador East Integrated School Board had a sustained policy of collecting and generating Labrador-specific curriculum materials, including teaching kits, themed photograph collections, exercise binders, and even textbooks. "Labrador Studies" holdings in this series include ready-to-use curriculum materials as well as some images and documents used in their production. Other holdings include material collected by the board for use in other educational units.

History
Series assembled for educational purposes by Larry Jenkins, who worked as a teacher and librarian at Menihek High School in Labrador City from 1974-1997.

Scope and content
Nine photographs of Labrador schooners, along with captions for twelve. Three photographs are presumed lost.

Processing
Key to photographs scanned.

Photographs
A. Labrador floaters in St. John's. In the spring, large numbers of outport fishing schooners came to St. John's to outfit for the summer voyage to Labrador.
B. Floaters docked in St. John's. Notice the deck piled up with barrels, traps, and other fishing gear, ready to sail to Labrador.
C. Labrador floaters passing through the Narrows at the entrance to St. John's harbour.
D. The floater in the foreground is probably taking on firewood before leaving for “Labrador. It was often necessary to take firewood because of the scarcity of wood along much of the Labrador coast.
E. Unloading dried cod fish from floaters in St. John's. The fish is now ready to be sold to the merchant. The man on the far right is grading and weighing the fish.
F. Labrador cod fish spread out to dry on “flakes” in St. John's. This was a very common sight in Newfoundland not so many years ago.
G. Grading and weighing dried cod fish. The man in the centre inspected the fish for proper cure.
H. Floater anchored in some unknown harbour in Labrador. Fishermen went out from the floater in boats called “skiffs” to haul the cod traps.
I. Floaters in Vension Tickle, Labrador. Vension Tickle was occupied for many summers by fishermen and their families from Carbonear and Harbour Grace. It was also a popular place for floater fishermen because of the good harbour. [missing]
J. Rowing ashore from floaters anchored in Batteau, Labrador. Batteau was visited for many years by floaters from Newfoundland. [missing]
K. Fishing “rooms” of the late Captain Bob Bartlett, Turnavik Island, northern Labrador, about the year 1906. The small schooners anchored in the harbour are called “bully boats”. [missing]
L. Indian Harbour, Labrador. In years gone by, Indian Harbour was one of the main centres of the floater fishery on the Labrador coast.

Scope and content
Photographs of Labrador communities, taken by school board representatives, including primarily Candace Cochrane, Levi Nochasak, and Tim Borlase. These images have since been put to use in various projects, and therefore many of them also appear in other series within the LEISB collection, such as in the Labrador Studies curriculum materials.

Processing
Original arrangement within containers; series and titles assigned based on content.

Candace Cochrane Photographs, 1985-1986 [M5 A6, B4-B6]
Candace Cochrane, a Maine-based photographer, toured several Labrador communities from 1985-1986, taking photographs based on an LEISB shot list, as part of the school board's curriculum materials development process. Funding for her contract was obtained through the Quebec-Labrador Foundation. Many of the photographs in this series were eventually used in Labrador Studies teacher's kits and elsewhere.

- Contact Sheets, 1985-1986. Contact sheets for about 1300 images with spare, identifying captions on the reverse. These were evidently done by Cochrane, who mailed the contact sheets to the LEISB from her home in Maine. Handwritten records were added by LEISB staff and stored alongside the (mostly numbered) contact sheets; the holdings have been transferred from the original mailing envelope into protective sleeves, but the original arrangement has been preserved. Some notes about ordering prints are also included. [M5 A6]

- Mary’s Harbour and Webb’s Bay, c1985-1986. One carousel of 122 slides containing images of Mary's Harbour and Webb's Bay, taken by Candace Cochrane. Some brief captions. [M5 B4]
- Nain, Goose Bay, and North West River, c1985-1986. One carousel of 48 slides containing images of Nain, Goose Bay, and North West River, taken by Candace Cochrane. Some brief captions. [M5 B5]
- Nain and Davis Inlet, c1985-1986. One carousel and two sheets of slides containing 151 images of Nain and Davis Inlet, taken by Candace Cochrane. Some brief captions. [M5 B6]

Levi Nochasak Photographs, 1985-1986 [M5 A7, B7-B11, D1]
Labradorimut photographer Levi Nochasak was contracted by the LEISB, with funding from the Quebec-Labrador Foundation, to take photographs in various coastal communities as part of the Labrador Studies curriculum materials development process. Images from this series were eventually used in many settings, including the Labrador Studies teacher’s kits.

- Contact Sheets, 1985-1986. Contact sheets for about 800 images, with dates and community names for sets of images, but no individual captions. Some labelling, numbering, and description was done by Nochasak and/or LEISB staff, but the records were stored in loose folders, and reconstructing the original arrangement, if any existed, has been problematic, though a few pages of notes pertaining to the ordering of prints have survived. [M5 A7]
- Negatives, 1985-1986. Unarranged negatives from Levi Nochasak’s photographic work for the LEISB. [M5 D1]
- Davis Inlet, 1985. One carousel of slides containing 80 images of Davis Inlet, taken by Levi Nochasak. Some brief captions. [M5 B11]

Nain Slideshow, 198- [M5 B3]
26 slides depicting views of Nain, with an accompanying caption sheet. The slideshow was compiled by Tim Borlase from other series within the LEISB collection, his own original photographs, and additional images from external sources.

Collected Community Photographs, 1980s [M5 A5]
105 photographs taken in various communities throughout Labrador and collected by the Labrador East Integrated School Board curriculum centre. Diverse in size and quality, but include many 8x10 prints. Most have accompanying descriptions by LI staff, produced for LINSIC prior to 2012.

Processing
Many images were described by LI staff prior to 2010. Samantha Mesher digitized and edited these descriptions and described the remaining images, summer 2015. The numbering is by original arrangement within sections delineated by community.

Educational Slideshows, 198-
P. 836 slides and one audiocassette [M5 A11-A14, C2-C3]
E/EA. none
Accessioned 2002, description updated 2015

Scope and content
Slideshows to support the Labrador Studies curriculum in LEISB schools.
Project Labrador, 198- [M5 A11-A12]
331 slides by various LEISB photographers in 2 binders, variously annotated, with occasional section headings. The arrangement upon accession has been preserved, but disorder is obvious. An introductory sheet within the holdings reads: “Project Labrador. Labrador North and Its People. Teacher’s Guide. […] This kit consists of 149 colour slides which examine various facets of Labrador life. Its purpose is to provide students with opportunities to visualize and appreciate the colourful beauty of Northern Labrador. These 148 slides were selected from over 1500 which were available. The term, Labrador, unfortunately still conjures up in the minds of both student and adult alike, images of a cold, inhospitable barren land, with little, in any appeal. These slides represent an attempt to change attitudes in this respect, by demonstrating that Labrador is an extremely attractive place to live. The century old traditions of Inuit, Indian, and settler people, alike, are strikingly evident and sharply contrasted with the hard realities of the large scale introduction of Southern Canadian technology.” There is also an index with captions and descriptions of each slide in the kit, but the correspondence between this metadata and particular images is not trivially established.

Labrador Studies Slides, 198- [M5 A13-A14, C2-C3]
Holdings
A collection of slides developed by the Labrador East Integrated School Board for use as part of the Grade 5 Labrador Studies curriculum. The slides are numbered and organized by topic into a three-part slideshow, stored in a binder, and an alternative arrangement (of some of the slides) is preserved in a duotang entitled “Slides of Labrador”. Holdings also include additional copies of many of the slides, numbered as in the slideshow, along with one audiocassette of recorded narration.

M5 A13. 190 slides, mostly numbered, in a three-part slideshow, with some evident disorder.
M5 C2-C3. 290 additional topical slides. Most are duplicates of Labrador Studies slides, but some are likely copies of slides either missing from or not selected for the slideshow in M5 A13. Also an audiocassette, “Slide Show - Labrador Peoples,” possibly associated with the slides.

Photographs collected by the LEISB for use in Labrador Studies curriculum development and textbook production. Many of these images appear elsewhere in the LEISB collection, and others were obtained from third-party sources. Perhaps one third have accompanying descriptions, in various levels of detail.

Processing
Sub-series titles and lists of image topics have been transcribed from the original manila file folders containing the items. The prints have been placed in their original order, in protective sleeves and binders, with printed section dividers. Arrangement by Catherine Emmens, summer 2013. Scattered images have since been digitized during Labrador Institute research projects; these are named and numbered by sub-series, and indicated by the bullet points below.

Scope and content
305 large-format photographic prints, most of them around 12 x 15 inches and mounted on coloured card. Topics range widely, but all images document Labrador people, places, and culture. Most images were selected by LEISB staff from the Them Days collection for educational purposes, and the prints are labelled with Them Days identification numbers and brief captions derived from Them Days metadata. The captions often indicate original sources; where "MUN - Goose Bay" is noted, LINSIC in fact originally provided the images to Them Days (generally via Them Days staff photographing LINSIC prints). The original copies of these images are preserved elsewhere in the Labrador Institute Archive (e.g. the Holloway and Townley albums).
Processing
At one time these prints were boxed by topic, but the original arrangement could not be restored, due to insufficient documentation and extensive misfiling prior to accession. They have therefore been re-ordered in the same boxes by Them Days identification number. Digitized summer 2016 by Riley Callahan.

Building a Komatik, [199-]
P. 6 drawings, 3 pages of text [M5 F1]
E. 6 images (TIFF), 2 documents (PDF) / 90.3 MB [conservation1/lsb/curriculum/komatik]
EA. 6 images (JPEG), 2 documents (PDF) / 3.10 MB [access1/lsb/curriculum/komatik]

Scope and content
A handwritten account, in InuNuttut, of how komatiks are traditionally made by the Labrador Inuit. Written in pencil in six parts, on two sides of a single sheet of paper. There is a rough, interlined translation into English, also handwritten in pencil, and an accompanying transcript preserving the original Inuit text and offering an alternative, more developed translation. Six pencil drawings accompany the original text, each illustrating a section of the account.

History
This material was collected by the LEISB, but it’s not clear whether it is the work of a student or a resource person from the community.

Processing
Digitized by Smaantha Mesher, summer 2015.

Holdings
- “Building a Komatik.” Typescript in Inuitut and English. (Unrelated educational blurb about George Cartwright on the reverse.)
- “Kamutik onikausinga. The Story about the sledge.” Pencil manuscript draft in Inuitut, with interline English translations in another hand. The “story” is an account of komatik-building in six numbered paragraphs. An equal number of drawings accompanies the text:
  1. Sawing the wood.
  2. Preparing the runners.
  3. Preparing the planks.
  4. Assembling the komatik.
  5. Finishing the runners.
  6. The final product.

Scope and content

An envelope containing thirty-four loose drawings, mostly original, in ball-point pen or pencil, on various sizes and kinds of paper. The drawings depict Labrador scenes and items, and were presumably commissioned or collected for use as Labrador Studies curriculum materials. Some drawings are credited to particular artists, but most are unsigned.

Llewelyn Pritchard Fonds, 1969-1970

History
E.R. Llewelyn Pritchard, who goes by both Llewelyn and Ernie, travelled to Labrador from the United Kingdom in 1969, to teach in the Voluntary Service Overseas program in Port Hope Simpson for one year. Eighteen years old at the time, he documented his time in Port Hope Simpson from 1969-1970 both in a diary and in photographs. Pritchard self-published the diary in 2010 as The Port Hope Simpson Diaries 1969-1970: The original diaries of Ernie Pritchard. He has also self-published a number of other titles on Labrador, including Port Hope Simpson Mysteries and The Voluntary Service Overseas in Labrador.

Port Hope Simpson Photographs, 1969-1970

P. 1 album containing 89 photographs [M8 A1]
E. 89 images (TIFF), 1 document (PDF) / 17.9 GB [archive/pritchard]
EA. 89 images (JPG), 1 document (PDF) / 5.94 MB [archive/pritchard]

Acquisition
Correspondence retained within the album indicates that Pritchard sent the diary and photographs both to the Labrador Institute in 2002, indicating a wish that they be shared with “Betty Sampson and the Port Hope Simpson community” and Them Days. The diary is not presently among the Labrador Institute Archive’s holdings, and it is unclear whether the original or a transcription was sent.

Scope and Content
89 4x6 inch prints with brief handwritten captions. An additional photograph is missing.
Processing
Photographs digitized by Samantha Mesher, summer 2015. Captions transcribed from Pritchard’s.

Mary Walker Fonds, c1989-1991

History
Mary Walker (born 1936), an Ontario teacher and interior designer, travelled several times to the Arctic and to Labrador to pursue a personal interest in northern culture. Her experiences on the Labrador trapline, mostly with Horace Goudie, are documented in a 1991 book published at Jesperson Press, The Lady and the Trapper (see the Labrador Institute Library), and also a narrated slideshow (see Fur Trapping in Labrador, below).

Acquisition
It’s not clear how these holdings came to be at the Labrador Institute. Given that the slideshows seem to have been produced for classroom use, they may have come via the Labrador School Board and Tim Borlase; but they may also have come to the Labrador Institute of Northern Studies directly, by any of various channels, most likely in the 1990s. Certainly they have been at the Institute since before 2007.

Fur Trapping in Labrador, 1989-1991

P. 62 slides [M10 B1], 1 cm text and 2 audiocassettes [M10 D1]
E. 62 images (TIFF), 2 sound recordings (WAV/M4A), 1 video (MP4), and 1 document (PDF) / 854 MB [conservation1/mary_walker/fur_trapping]
EA. 62 images (JPEG), 2 sound recordings (MP3/M4A), 1 video (MP4) / 186 MB [access1/mary_walker/fur_trapping]
Accessioned prior to 2010, description updated 2015.

History
Mary Walker travelled a Kenamu River trapline with Horace Goudie from October 7-18, 1989 and March 1-16, 1990, keeping a diary along the way and ultimately publishing a book. The slideshow documents the same experiences, drawing upon both trips.

Holdings
62 slides, with accompanying narration as print notes and on audiocassette. The cassette also includes stories by Horace Goudie.

Processing
In 2013 these materials were selected for a test project in slideshow digitization. The slides were scanned using equipment at Them Days, and combined with a digital transfer of the audio narration from the original cassette into a video format, with images advancing as indicated by the original printed note, which were also scanned to PDF.

The Lost North, 1990

P. 79 slides [M10 B2], 1 cm text, 1 print, and 1 audiocassette [M10 D1]
E. 80 images (TIFF), 1 sound recording (WAV), 1 video (MP4), 1 document (PDF) / 4.25 GB [conservation1/mary_walker/lost_north]
EA. 80 images (JPEG), 1 sound recording (WAV), 1 video (MP4), 1 document (PDF) / 1.01 GB [access1/mary_walker/lost_north]
Accessioned prior to 2010, description updated 2015.

Scope and Content
A slideshow overview of traditional Inuit culture and arctic wildlife, based on Walker’s experiences in the High Arctic communities of Igloolik, Clyde [River], and Broughton [Island].

Holdings
79 slides with audio narration and printed notes, covering the first 73 slides. Possibly the notes are incomplete; they have not been compared with the sound recording. There is also an 8x10 photograph of Walker on the tundra, wearing a skin parka, mittens, and boots.

Processing
Samantha Mesher produced a digital slideshow in 2015 from the slides, print photograph, text, and audiocassette.

Davis Inlet footage, 1970-1977
P. 7 DVDs [M3 E5]
E. 7 video files (MPEG) / 6.10 GB [conservation2/mun_ext/davis_inlet]
EA. same [access1/mun_ext/davis_inlet]

Scope and Content
Assorted, unedited clips of daily life, filmed in Davis Inlet.

Archival History
Items 1-6 seem to have been shot in 1975, but copied in 1977.

Processing
 Titles for items 1-6 are not original. The dates given in the item descriptions are transcribed as printed on the cassettes. The original recordings have been poorly preserved in many places, resulting in reduced intelligibility throughout. All video footage digitized by Mark Turner, 2010, as part of the LIFVC initiative. Original copies stored off-site.

Raw footage of an Innu land claims meeting, in Innu-Aimun.

Processing

The constituent videos appear to have been filmed at the same time, but are diversely labelled between September 1975 and January 1979. Some dates may be dates of duplication or transferral; the date of the original meeting is unclear. One tape's label indicates that the meeting was held in North West River. All video footage digitized by Mark Turner, 2010, as part of the LIFVC initiative. Original copies stored off-site.

Holdings

1. Raw footage. The original tape is labelled "Land Claims Meeting #1" and dated September 7, 1978. (00:31:00) FV.001.A.A.0061

2. Raw footage, preceded by brief, taped-over footage of an industrial process. The original tape is labelled "Land Claims Meeting #6," implying that however the tapes are intended to be ordered, some footage has been lost. The tape is dated September 7, 1978. (00:31:10) FV.001.A.A.0062

3. Undated raw footage. The original tape is labelled "Native Land Claims Meeting." (00:25:12) FV.001.A.A.0079

History

Edward J. O'Brien (1884-1986) was ordained a catholic priest on 24 June 1910. He was born and died in Carbonear, and lived predominantly in Newfoundland throughout his life, but from 1921 to 1946 spent his summers as missionary to the Innu of the Labrador coast, during which time he took many photographs and captured much video footage. The negatives here are presumed to be O’Brien’s originals; the slides are thought to have been produced by him for display, either for personal use, church reporting, or sharing with the Innu community. The format and handling of the prints seems to indicate that they were ordered later, for the LINS collection.

Scope and content

Still images and video collected or created during the making of The Indians' Father Whitehead, a documentary produced by MUN Extension Service and directed by Charles Callanan. Video includes the documentary itself, associated interview footage of the eponymous Monsignor Edward O'Brien, and copies of footage taken by O'Brien himself from 1921-1946. Photographs include negatives, prints, and slides, largely representing the same set of images (a few discrepancies likely indicate the loss of some copies over time). The negatives represent 179 exposures, but many of these are due to multiple shutter clicks. There are in fact original negatives for 71 unique images, with an additional 3 images present only as slides (presumably the corresponding negatives have been lost or removed from the collection), for a total of 74 images in the collection. Slide copies also exist for 70 of the other negatives, leaving only 1 negative (image 45) without a corresponding slide. Print copies exist for 71 images (i.e. all except images 10, 25, and 63).

Acquisition

Likely deposited with LINSIC by the MUN Extension Service in 1982.

Processing

Images have been numbered by the sequence of the negatives in their housing (though this may not be original). Slide numbers are also given, according to their arrangement in the carousel (also apparently arbitrary). Descriptions provided or updated by Samantha Mesher, 2015. 11 earlier (<2010) textual descriptions by Labrador Institute staff accompany 11 of the prints. Negatives and slides digitized by Samantha Mesher, 2015. Video footage digitized by Mark Turner, 2010, as part of the LIFVC initiative. Original copies stored off-site.

History
A film-making and community development project, modelled on the Fogo Process, which had been established by the Newfoundland Project a few years earlier. The Labrador Film Project 1969 involved the production of various in-situ documentary and interview films, collecting the experiences and perspectives of Labradorians in a broad range of contexts. Produced by Harvey Best and Joe Harvey for MUN Extension, with interview subjects from Labrador’s south coast.

Labrador Resources Advisory Council, 1976-1981
P. 80 slides, 1 audiocassette [M3 B2], 2 DVDs [M3 E2]
E. 2 video files, 2.76 GB [conservation2/mun_ext/lrac]
EA. same [access1/mun_ext/lrac]

History
The Labrador Resources Advisory Council was founded at Cartwright in 1976, with community representation from across the region and provincial government funding arising out of the Commission on Labrador completed in 1974. The council aimed to guide resource development in Labrador through research and dialogue, and was heavily influenced by the methods of MUN Extension, whose director Don Snowden had led the Commission on Labrador, and whose staff attended, documented, and participated in LRAC meetings. The council’s funding was cut in 1981.

Acquisition
Upon the LRAC’s demise, its information holdings and many of its records fell to MUN Extension in Happy Valley-Goose Bay. Library materials and some archival items were then included in LINSIC upon its formation in 1982 (see the Labrador Resources Advisory Council Collection).

Scope and content
Audio and video recordings documenting the early meetings of the LRAC, and a slideshow produced by the LRAC on the Labrador fishery, produced in the context of contemporary petroleum exploration in Labrador waters. Other series in the MUN Extension collection also overlap significantly with LRAC activities.

Processing
Video recordings were digitized by Mark Turner as part of the LIFVC initiative. Original media are stored off-site.

Uranium, 1977

P. 7 DVDs [M3 E2]
E. 7 video files, 11.6 GB [conservation2/mun_ext/uranium]
EA. same [access1/mun_ext/uranium]

Scope and Content
A series of videos about Brinex's proposed uranium mining developments in Makkovik, produced by MUN Extension with Brinex, including a general overview of uranium mining practices and a more specific investigation of the potential social, cultural, economic, and environmental impacts of uranium mining operations near Makkovik. Six of the videos are also available via the Memorial University of Newfoundland Digital Archives Initiative; the archival history of the seventh is uncertain, but it seems to have been produced in Makkovik as part of the same film project.

OKâlaKatiget Society Collection, 1982-2010

Acquisition
The bulk of this collection was acquired directly from the OK Society in 2010, when Mark Turner was given permission to digitally transfer OK Society holdings to DVD for deposit at the Labrador Institute. Some additional items had already been collected by LINS/the Labrador Institute, likely over many years and through various channels. A few remaining items were given to the Labrador Institute in 2010 (three by Tim McNeill, one by Martha Macdonald, and one by the Labrador Interpretation Centre).

Accessioned [198-]2011 [predominantly 2010-2011], description updated 2015

Scope and Content:
Approximately 360 Labradorimiut episodes and related production footage.

Processing:
Where not otherwise indicated, items listed below were collected from the OKâlaKatiget Society and transferred to DVD from various magnetic tape formats by Mark Turner, 2010-2011 (other items, marked with LIFVC “FV” numbers, are from other original sources, which are identified if known). The tapes were mainly copies provided to OK by Sarah Townley, the Inuit Programming Specialist at the Labrador School Board, to replace originals which had been lost to fire. The school board had kept copies of Labradorimiut episodes for educational use; this collection was aspirationally, but not actually, a complete run. It is believed to be fully or mostly replicated in the collection described below.

Most of the DVD transfers (both English and Inuittitut) were described by Kelly McLean, 2014. Kelly’s notes are reproduced in adapted form below, and arranged according to the numbering system transcribed from the school board tapes.

In 2015, the material was also re-arranged by episode, to make it more accessible to researchers and more easily inventoried by curators. This method also reproduces the apparent original intention of the OKâlaKatiget Society, and closely follows the print documentation received with the collection. Individual episodes were therefore identified, arranged, and converted to MKV and MP4 for this purpose by Jared Knight-Fudge.

The holdings lists below reflect both arrangements: first, a list of episodes in the collection (with original tape numbers noted), arranged by episode number or date of production, where known; and second, a list of tapes in the collection, with tentative episode identifications as made in 2014. In cases of disagreement, the first list should be considered more authoritative. Throughout, episode metadata has been assembled piecemeal by Mark Turner, Kelly McLean, Jared Knight-Fudge, and Morgan Mills from cassette cases and labels, video content, original documents provided by the OKâlaKatiget Society, and third-party sources; it is therefore subject to error. Relevant OK Society documents are included in the holdings list below.

Peary-Macmillan Arctic Museum Collection, 1891-1954

History
The Peary-Macmillan Arctic Museum at Bowdoin College in Brunswick, Maine, has extensive holdings pertaining to Labrador, particularly associated with the many expeditions to the Labrador coast of Donald Macmillan (accompanied in later years by his wife Miriam, nee Look), and with the Bowdoin College Scientific Expedition to Labrador in 1891.
Acquisition
In the 1980s, the Labrador Institute of Northern Studies acquired copies of many materials at PMAM, including photocopies of textual documents and duplicates of photographic negatives and video recordings. LINS staff also travelled to Maine to take photographs of Labrador artifacts in PMAM’s collections.

Scope and content
In addition to the three series described below, an additional 17 cm of text and photographs, along with some video content, have yet to be described [M32 G1]. These holdings relate to the following broad categories:

- Robert Bartlett
- A.C. Parker
- Bowdoin Scientific Expedition 1891
- Bowdoin College Expedition 1860
- Additional Photographs
- Monographs
- Historical film.

Artifact Photographs, 1981
P. 76 slides, 233 prints, and approximately 300 negatives [M32 A1-A2, M32 C1]
E/EA. none
Accessioned [198-], description updated 2016.

Scope and Content

Processing
Upon returning to Labrador with photographs in 1981, LINS staff had some negatives developed as prints, and some as slides, presumably for use in local presentations on the PMAM’s Labrador artifact collection. The album arrangement is preserved, but the slides, additional prints, and negatives are disordered, with holdings likely incomplete. The slides have been arranged by print number and housed in protective sleeves; prints and negatives have been retained as found.

Holdings
- Album containing 163 photographs [M32 A1]
- 76 slides [M32 A2]
- Nine unlabelled envelopes containing 70 prints and 60 strips of negatives (approximately 5 images per strip), [M32 C1] all documenting Labrador artifacts in the PMAM collection.

Acquisition
Acquired from the Peary-MacMillan Arctic Museum at Bowdoin College, Maine, by LINS staff in the 1980s.

Scope and Content
Historical photographs of Labrador, taken predominantly by Rupert H. Baxter on an expedition in 1891; by William Brooks Cabot, mainly during the summer of 1910; and especially by Donald Baxter MacMillan, or on occasion his wife Miriam (Look) MacMillan, any time between 1912 and 1950.

Processing
The majority of these photographs were extensively handled, arranged, and described by LINS staff for internal purposes prior to the establishment of the Labrador Institute archive. They were numbered merely as historical photographs, without regard to provenance; and in the absence of an original sequence, that numbering is preserved here. The images were also described thoroughly by various LI staff and summer students over a period of many years, using handwritten forms which accompany the photographs in their binders. The information from those forms has been transcribed below, with corrections and reformating as appropriate, and with Peary-Macmillan Arctic Museum identification numbers added where known. Them Days identification numbers are also noted, in cases... where the same photograph is known to appear in the archival holdings at Them Days. Missing numbers below represent photographs now assigned to other, distinct collections (i.e. they did not come from the Peary-Macmillan Arctic Museum), but of the initial LINS 760 photographs, only 13 are not PMAM images: LINS numbers 650, 652-4, 674, 683, 737, 739-742, and 744-745.

EA. 21 images (JPEG) / 1.79 MB [access1/ruperthbaxter]
Accessioned 198-, description updated 2015

History
Rupert Henry Baxter, of the prominent Maine Baxter family, was a junior university student and participant in the 1891 Bowdoin College expedition to Labrador, led by Professor Leslie Lee.

Scope and Content
20 photographs taken on that expedition, plus a photograph of a reproduced 1504 Portuguese map of Labrador and the northwestern Atlantic.

Acquisition
The original accession comprises 21 glass slides obtained by Laura Jackson, a former LINS researcher, from Mary Baxter White. Additional Baxter materials are housed at the Peary MacMillan Arctic Museum, and the Labrador Institute has also received print copies of some images from that institution. See also the Rupert H. Baxter series in the Peary-MacMillan Arctic Museum collection.

Processing
Print and electronic copies have been made, and 20 of 21 images have accompanying textual descriptions.

Smithsonian Institution Collection, 1928-2001

Toys and Games, <2001
P. 28 slides [M13 D1]
E/EA. none
Accessioned c2001, description updated 2015

History
Photographs of objects the Lucien M. Turner Collection at the Smithsonian. Turner carried out ethnological work among the Inuit and Innu in northern Quebec and Labrador from 1882-1884. His work was republished in 2001, with an introduction by Stephen Loring.

Scope and Content
Photographs of artifacts collected by Turner and now housed at the Smithsonian. The images are undated, but appear in the 2001 edition of Turner's ethnology (see the Labrador Institute Library). “Toys and games” is a small subset of the Turner Collection, and these images were undoubtedly chosen to complement a specific project or initiative in Labrador at the time. There is no evidence of a connection to the Labrador Pastimes: Toys, Games, and Amusements project, which dates to 1982.

Acquisition
Given to the Labrador Institute by Stephen Loring, Museum Anthropologist at the Smithsonian. His business card is stored with the slides.

E. 120 images (TIFF) / 1.99 GB [conservation1/tasker]
EA. 1 document (PDF), 141 images (JPG) / 54.8 MB [access1/tasker]

Accessioned 2016, description updated 2016

History
In 1906, marine engineer Stephen Tasker and his wife, Florence (Applebaugh) Tasker, were inspired by news of the Wallace and Hubbard expeditions to travel to Ungava themselves. They engaged two of Mina Hubbard’s guides, George Elson and Job Chapies, and paddled from Missinabie to Moose Factory, then after taking a steamer as far as Great Whale River, paddled to Richmond Gulf and then overtook a canoe crossing of Ungava to Fort Chimo, via the Clearwater River. The four successfully traversed the peninsula in a single canoe, and then caught the HBC steamer south to Cartwright in the fall, proceeding from there to St. John’s by the Virginia Lake coastal boat, and thence onward home.

Acquisition
Album loaned to the Labrador Institute for digitization by Memorial University’s Archives and Special Collections. Acquired by them from Victoria bookseller Bjarne Tokerud; previous provenance unknown. The original album has been returned to Archives and Special Collections in St. John’s.

Processing
Digitized and described by Morgon Mills, 2015-2016. Electronic conservation copies are original TIFF scans of album pages; access copies include a reduced-quality PDF compilation of the scans, preserving original arrangement, as well as individually cropped JPEGs corresponding to individual prints, for convenience and clarity of reference.

Holdings
The arrangement and numbering of these descriptions correspond to the access copies: the first item is a PDF compilation of the album pages, and subsequent items are individual prints. The holdings information below was originally written by Morgon Mills for Memorial Mills for Memorial’s Digital Archives Initiative.

1. 1906 Labrador Photo Album. 7x10 inch photo album containing 121 photographs thought to have been taken by Stephen and Florence Tasker in 1906; 4 photographs of George Elson, taken 1920-1924; 7 photographs clipped from magazines; 1 formal portrait of Rev. Samuel Milliken Stewart on card; 7 other photographs collected by the Taskers; and 1 newspaper clipping (affixed to the cover).
2. Cover. Album cover. “1906 Labrador.” Affixed newspaper clipping reads “Twenty-five Years Ago Today: A speech by President Roosevelt at Harrisburg was taken by political observers as indicating a presidential boom for Senator Knox [that was Oct 4, 1906]. Word was received by relatives here [Philadelphia] that Mrs. Stephen P.M. Tasker of this city, had succeeded in crossing Northern Labrador with her [husband], being, it was believed, the [first] white woman to accomplish the journey!“
3. Inside Cover A. Photograph, 1924. Captioned on the reverse: “1924.” George Elson and his wife?
5. Inside Cover C. Photograph, 1924. George Elson, wife? and Florence Tasker?

22. Page 16. Stephen and Florence Tasker photograph, 1906. The expedition’s camp, with tent poles from previous site occupants in the foreground. Two tents, widely spaced [one for Elson and Chapies, the other for the Taskers]. Florence Tasker and two men [Elson and Chapies?] sit by the fire.

Page 87. Stephen and Florence Tasker photograph, 1906. Inuk woman. Caption: "All of these old dames were degrading, silvery finish, on stiffer paper than the Tasker photos, and were taken at a different time of year."

Page 83 B. Stephen and Florence Tasker photograph, 1906. A building at Fort Chimo, equipped with an exterior bell [a schoolhouse and/or a church?]. Marked "81."

Page 76. Stephen and Florence Tasker photograph, 1906. Coastal landscape. Caption: "The best picture of Labrador!" [The slip could possibly have been intended for the facing photograph on page 77, but it would be more consistent with the Taskers' usual tone to apply it to a barren and almost featureless landscape.]

Page 75. Stephen and Florence Tasker photograph, 1906. The same group as on page 72, with only the men.

Page 73. Stephen and Florence Tasker photograph, 1906. The same group as on page 72, with only the women and children.

Television Community Recreation Collection, 1976-2001

History
Television Community Recreation (TVCR) operated a community television channel in North West River as a non-profit community venture throughout the 1990s.

Acquisition
The TVCR board, chaired by Ed Tuttauk, donated 231 VHS cassettes to the Labrador Institute archival collection in 2010, in order that the video footage should be preserved.

Processing
Video was transferred to DVD by Mark Turner as part of the LIFVC initiative, 2008-2010, and converted to MPG/MP4 by Morgon Mills, 2011-2012. Original media are stored off-site. The materials were unarranged upon accession and have therefore been sorted by topic, with series created for groups of more than three related videos.

1996-1997 was a busy time for elections in Labrador. In addition to aboriginal elections, including the Innu Nation, there were both provincial and federal elections, as well as a federal by-election confined particularly to Labrador.

February 22, 1996: the 44th Newfoundland General Election, in which Liberals took three of the four Labrador seats, led by Perry Canning in Labrador West, Ernie McLean in Lake Melville, and Wally Andersen in Torngat Mountains. The fourth seat was won by independent candidate Yvonne Jones in Cartwright-L’Anse-au-Clair (and she joined the Liberal Party shortly afterwards).

February 23, 1996: The Liberal nomination for Labrador was won by Lawrence O’Brien ahead of six other candidates.

March 25, 1996: Lawrence O’Brien of the Liberal Party won the federal by-election for Labrador (the seat having been vacated by Bill Rompkey’s appointment to the Canadian Senate in 1995).

June 2, 1997: Lawrence O’Brien retained his seat in the 36th General Election.

Innu Nation Elections
• Innu Nation Election Candidates: Daniel Ashini and Paul Rich, 199-. A few minutes of advertisements, followed by two lengthy addresses to the camera in Innu-Aimun. The first of the two is delivered by Daniel Ashini, and the second is by Paul Rich. (00:44:55)
• Innu Nation Election Candidates: Katie Rich and Simeon Tshakapesh, 1997. Campaign addresses by Katie Rich and Simeon Tshakapesh, in Innu-Aimun. Taped over production footage from the Strever Express project. (01:00:27)

1996 Provincial Election
TVCR seems to have styled itself TVCLabrador for its election coverage.
• 1996 Provincial Election Candidate Ernie McLean, 4/2/1996. Raw footage from a campaign rally and birthday party for Ernie McLean, the liberal candidate for Lake Melville in the upcoming February 22, 1996 provincial election, in which Ernie would win the seat. (00:30:48)
• 1996 Provincial Election Candidates for Lake Melville, 2/1996. TVCLabrador presents one-on-one interviews with two Lake Melville candidates for the Newfoundland and Labrador provincial election on February 22, 1996: (1) Ernie McLean of the Liberal Party, the eventual winner of the seat; and (2) Darlene Gear-White of the Progressive-Conservative Party, who after her loss would run in the March 25, 1996 federal by-election, again as a PC (see associated item). (00:38:34)

1996 Federal By-Election
• 1996 Federal Liberal Nomination Candidate Ron Bowles, 13/1/1996. Leander Baikie of TVCR interviews Ron Bowles during his campaign for the liberal nomination in advance of the March 25, 1996 federal by-election in Labrador. The nomination was decided on February 23, and awarded to Lawrence O’Brien. (00:06:39)
Television Community Recreation Collection, 1976-2001

- 1996 Federal Liberal Nomination Candidates, 2/1996. TVCLabrador presents pre-recorded statements by six of the seven candidates for the February 23, 1996 federal nomination in Labrador. In order of appearance, the candidates are (1) Ron Bowles; (2) Lawrence O'Brien; (3) Gordon Rendell; (4) Richard Cashin; (5) Gladys Marche; and (6) Garfield Warren. The first candidate, Ron Bowles, was also featured in a one-on-one interview with Leander Baikie on TVCR on January 13 (see associated item). The second candidate, Lawrence O'Brien, went on to win the nomination. (00:47:47)

- 1996 Federal By-Election Candidates, 3/1996. TVCLabrador presents pre-recorded statements by four candidates for the March 25, 1996 federal by-election in Labrador, which was held following previous MP Bill Rompkey's appointment to the Canadian Senate in 1995. In order of appearance, the candidates are (1) Randy Collins, NDP; (2) Lawrence O'Brien, Liberal; (3) John McGrath, Reform; and (4) Darlene Gear-White, PC. Two of the candidates had just returned from the polls: O'Brien had lately won the liberal nomination in a separate election on February 23 (see associated item), while Gear-White had lately run as the provincial PC candidate on February 22, but lost to Liberal Ernie McLean (see associated item). Lawrence O'Brien went on to win the seat. (00:38:34)

1997 Federal Election

- Interview with MP Lawrence O'Brien, 1997. TVCLabrador interviews sitting Liberal MP of Labrador, Lawrence O'Brien, in advance of the expected, but not-yet-announced 36th general federal election, for which O'Brien would again be nominated as the Liberal Party's candidate in Labrador, and in which he would retain his seat. (00:28:40)

- 1997 Federal Election Candidate Hayward Broomfield, 5/1997. TVCLabrador presents a recorded campaign address by Progressive Conservative candidate Hayward Broomfield before the 1997 federal election. (00:11:23)

Mike Stevens in Sheshatshiu, 2002

P. 1 DVD [M22 E2]
E. 2 video files (MPEG) / 1.30 GB [conservation2/tvcr/stevens]
EA. same [access1/tvcr/stevens]

History
Mike Stevens is a well-known Canadian bluegrass harmonica player and the founder of the ArtsCan Circle program to bring the creative arts to indigenous youth in Canada.

Archival History
Ted Ostrowski of TVCR worked on Mike Stevens’ video project; copies of the production footage remained with Ted and were given to the Labrador Institute along with the remainder of the TVCR collection.

Scope and Content
Footage of Stevens in Sheshatshiu, speaking to and playing for two groups of young people: one in a workshop setting, and one outside, as the children inhale gasoline fumes from plastic bags. Shot by Ted Ostrowski of North West River. This footage was the basis for “A Walk in My Dream,” a short documentary released in 2002, along with an accompanying harmonica piece of the same title, based on Stevens’s nightmares about the substance abuse he witnessed in Sheshatshiu. For a full explanation of the context and origins of the video, see www.artscancircle.ca/index.php?show=11.

Holdings
- Edited video. Video produced during two trips to Sheshatshiu. On the first trip, Stevens spoke to and played for a group of youths as they inhaled gasoline fumes from plastic bags; on the second, he held a structured workshop and gave out harmonicas in the hope of forging a redemptive connection to music and the creative process. The video was the basis for “A Walk in My Dream,” a short documentary released by Stevens’ organization, the ArtsCan Circle, later the same year. (00:09:12)
- Raw Footage. The clips in Stevens’ edited film are drawn from this video. Shot by Ted Ostrowski of North West River. (00:31:20)

Them Days Incorporated Collection, 1900-1984

History
Them Days is a registered charity based in Happy Valley-Goose Bay, devoted to the preservation and promotion of Labrador’s cultural history, primarily through oral history research, archival collections, occasional publications, and above all its flagship quarterly magazine. It is the primary archival institution in Labrador, and the most significant non-academic, non-governmental cultural institution. Them Days has been volunteer-driven since its inception in 1975, when it was a project of the Labrador Heritage Society and the brainchild of Isaac Rich, and is fully independent. Doris Saunders was editor for nearly 30 years, and for this work she received an appointment to the Order of Canada and honourary doctorate from Memorial. Aimee Chaulk has been editor since 2008. Updated 2015.

Acquisition
The Labrador Institute and Them Days have collaborated closely for several decades, with LI staff often serving on the board of Them Days. The precise channels and dates of past acquisitions are therefore often unclear.

Scope and Content
Images either obtained from Them Days or later found to be identical with photographs at Them Days. In most cases, item-level metadata has been transcribed or adapted from Them Days finding aids.

Processing
Five images (as indicated below) were digitized in March 2015 for use by Craft Labrador.

Holdings
8x10 prints and 8.5x11 digital prints.
3. Innu women making snowshoes. Davis Inlet.
5. Violet Fowler gardening cabbages. Capstan Island.
6. Sealskin boots and tools to make them (knives, etc.). Digitized.
7. Woman hooking a rug (dog pattern). Digitized.

Slides. The first is a photograph of Hudson’s Bay Company coins; the remaining eight are mounted negatives, themselves apparently photographs of captioned prints. The captions are ID numbers in the system devised by Nigel Markham in the 1970s, initially during a photo collection project undertaken for the Labrador Inuit Association, and also in his role on the Them Days board of directors.
