The Department of Political Science invites applications for per course appointments for the following Political Science courses to be taught in the Fall term of 2018.

The Per Course Instructor is required to prepare and deliver the course content in accordance with the University Senate approved calendar descriptions and the Department of Political Science guidelines.

3140-001 Feminist Political Theory (Tuesday/Thursday 2:00-3:15 pm):

Feminist Political Theory examines feminist scholarship that has challenged previously accepted notions in political theory, including definitions of politics itself, the distinctions between public and private, the nature of citizenship, and the roles of women in civil society. This course considers different ways of looking at power and political culture in modern societies, examining theses such as gender and democracy, race and class, poverty and welfare, sexuality and morality.

Required qualifications:

A Masters’ level qualification in Political Science and previous relevant teaching experience at the University level in Political Science or are required.

The rate of pay for all positions is according to the LUMUN Collective Agreement.

Memorial University of Newfoundland is committed to employment equity and encourages applications from qualified women and men, visible minorities, aboriginal people and persons with disabilities. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

DEADLINE FOR APPLICATIONS: June 28, 2018
