Applications are invited from qualified individuals who are interested in being considered for a position as a per course instructor teaching Psychology 2920 Research Methods in Psychology for Non-Majors in Intersession semester 2017 on the St. John’s campus. The course is scheduled for Slot 2 MWF 9.00-9.50 and Slot 3 MWF 10.00-10.50. The Calendar description is:

Research Methods in Psychology for Non-Majors provides an introduction to the design, understanding, and application of psychological research. Topics covered include understanding and applying scientific method, creating and testing hypotheses, constructing reliable and valid experiments, and the proper use of controls. An emphasis will be placed on thinking critically about psychology and common errors of judgment.

Required qualifications: (1) A demonstrated knowledge of psychology, especially experimental psychology, and the specific topics noted in the course description; (2) a Ph.D. in psychology; (3) evidence of effective teaching; and (4) demonstrated experience conducting research and publishing in peer reviewed journals are required. Preference will be given first to applicants who have previously taught Psychology 2920 on the St. John’s campus, and secondarily to applicants who have previous experience teaching the equivalent of Psychology 2920 elsewhere.

Applicants should send a letter of application, curriculum vitae, evidence of effective teaching, and the names of three references in electronic form to: Psychsecretary@mun.ca

If electronic submission is not possible, applicants may send the information to:
