The Department of Computer Science invites applications from individuals interested in teaching the following undergraduate Computer Science course in the Fall 2021 semester.

Subject to budgetary restrictions and sufficient enrolments, appointments will be made on a course by course basis and will not entail any obligation to conduct research or to perform any administrative service for Memorial University. Appointments will be made in accordance with the provisions in the MUN-LUMUN Collective Agreement. Course design and evaluation methods for all courses will be in accordance with the Department of Computer Science policies and regulations and the Memorial University Calendar.

Course Title: COMP 1003 Foundations of Computing Systems

Course Schedule: Lectures: Monday, Wednesday, Friday 10:00-10:50 (Slot 3); Labs: Wednesday 14:00-16:50 (Slot 63)

Campus Location: St. John’s

Course Description: COMP 1003 provides an in-depth introduction to foundational topics in computer science: algorithms and data structures, theory of computing, machine architecture and their historical context.

For further information regarding the Computer Science undergraduate program, including this course, please refer to our current Undergraduate Handbook: https://www.mun.ca/computerscience/ugrad/UGHandbooks/UG_Handbook_2020-2021_1.0.pdf

Qualifications: A general knowledge of all areas of Computer Science and in depth understanding of computer architectures are required. Familiarity with both algorithmic and systems aspects of computing is necessary. The applicant should be able to confer excitement about the field of Computer Science. Prior teaching experience with course material for Computer science is highly beneficial. Applicants should have a Master’s degree in Computer Science or closely related discipline, or equivalent combination of education and experience.
