

Your lab partner has taken an interest in your brain ... Eating it, that is.

You never know where zombies will attack, but when they do, it pays to have a plan.

Memorial's new Emergency Plan doesn't specifically mention the undead, but it does contain everything you need to know in the event of an emergency (zombie or otherwise).

We all have a role to play: find out yours at www.mun.ca/emergency

Werewolves have taken over Memorial ... Does that mean your chemistry lab is cancelled?

When emergencies happen, sometimes it's hard to know what to do, but planning ahead can help.

Memorial's new Emergency Plan doesn't specifically mention howling half-humans, but it does contain everything you need to know in the event of an emergency (whether the full moon is to blame or otherwise).

We all have a role to play: find out yours at www.mun.ca/emergency

B-boys from Mars have challenged Memorial to a battle for planet earth... So, you think you can dance?

Maybe you've got the moves to save the universe, but if not, don't worry – Memorial's ready for situations like this.

The new Emergency Plan has everything you need to know in the event of an emergency, either on or off the dance floor.

We all have a role to play: find out yours at www.mun.ca/emergency

It's coming ... The attack of the killer Biebs!

Tween pop stars can be scary at the best of times, but when they're 100 ft. tall and bent on world-domination, it really pays to have a plan.

Memorial's new Emergency Plan doesn't specifically mention any of your little sisters' musical idols, but it does contain everything you need to know in the event of an emergency.

We all have a role to play: find out yours at www.mun.ca/emergency