Memorial University of Newfoundland
Department of Ocean and Naval Architectural Engineering

Regular-Term Faculty Position

Applications are invited for a regular-term faculty position at the assistant professor level in the Department of Ocean and Naval Architectural Engineering, commencing Sept. 1, 2023 or earliest thereafter. Candidates with backgrounds in all areas of naval architecture, marine and ocean engineering will be considered but backgrounds in marine hydrodynamics, ship and/or offshore structures, or marine engineering would be an asset. The appointment will be for a three-year term, and is subject to budgetary approval.

Candidates must have a bachelor’s degree in naval architecture and/or ocean engineering, and earned a PhD degree in a relevant area of expertise. Rank and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

The successful candidate will be expected to participate in the academic programs of the department, including teaching a broad range of undergraduate courses in ocean and naval architectural engineering, developing undergraduate laboratories, supervising graduate students, teaching courses in graduate programs and other educational, scholarly, and professional activities. Experience in teaching ocean and naval architectural engineering and first-year engineering courses are an asset. In addition, the successful candidate will be expected to carry out multi-disciplinary, collaborative research with industry, government institutions, and other university researchers. Evidence of successful research grant applications (current or completed) is an asset. The successful candidate is expected to register as a professional engineer in Newfoundland and Labrador.

The Department of Ocean and Naval Architectural Engineering has a well-established, nationally and internationally recognized undergraduate program with a mandatory co-operative education component. We have strong graduate studies and research programs, and offer thesis-based graduate degrees at the master’s and doctoral levels. For information on the Department of Ocean and Naval Architectural Engineering, please visit www.mun.ca/engineering/ona/.

Perched on Canada’s North Atlantic coast, Memorial University is a destination for discovery. A beacon for the 21st-century explorer, Newfoundland and Labrador’s university is a unique learning community founded in 1925 as a living memorial to those who lost their lives in the First World War — “that in freedom of learning their cause and sacrifice might not be forgotten.” Today more than 19,000 students from nearly 115 countries come together to discover. From the classics to advanced technology, the comprehensive university offers certificate, diploma, undergraduate, graduate and postgraduate programs across six campuses, numerous locations and online. A global network of more than 100,000 accomplished alumni throughout the world strengthens Memorial University’s capacity and reputation for leadership in world-class research, teaching and public engagement. To take a closer look, visit www.mun.ca.
Applications should include a curriculum vitae, names and contact information of three referees and a two-page statement of teaching and research interests. Copies of three relevant technical publications may also be included. Please send applications to:

Dr. Lorenzo Moro, Head (Acting)
Department of Ocean and Naval Architectural Engineering
Faculty of Engineering and Applied Science
Memorial University of Newfoundland
St. John’s, NL Canada, A1B 3X5
Email: engr.onae@mun.ca

Reference: F05019-2023-55

Deadline to submit an application is June 15, 2023.

All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, citizens and permanent residents of Canada will be given priority.

Memorial University is committed to employment equity, diversity, inclusion and anti-racism, and encourages applications from all qualified candidates, including: women; people of any sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression; Indigenous Peoples; visible minorities, and racialized people; and people with disabilities. All applicants are invited to identify themselves as a member of an equity-deserving group(s) as appropriate. Applicants cannot be considered as a member of an equity-deserving group(s) unless they complete an employment equity survey. Memorial is committed to providing an inclusive learning and work environment. If there is anything we can do to ensure your full participation during the application process please contact equity@mun.ca directly and we will work with you to make appropriate arrangements.

We acknowledge that the lands on which Memorial University’s campuses are situated are in the traditional territories of diverse Indigenous groups, and we acknowledge with respect the diverse histories and cultures of the Beothuk, Mi’kmaq, Innu, and Inuit of this province.