APPENDIX A – SPECIFICATIONS & SCOPE

1. Institutional Overview

The Fisheries and Marine Institute of the Memorial University of Newfoundland (the “MI” or “Marine Institute”) is the most comprehensive institution of its kind in North America. It offers graduate (PhD and masters) and undergraduate degrees, diplomas, certificates, and industry training for the oceans sectors.

The Institute’s main campus is located on Ridge Road in St. John’s, Newfoundland and Labrador. Satellite locations and facilities include the Mt. Scio Bioprocessing Facility in St John’s, the Offshore Safety and Survival Centre in Foxtrap, The Launch in Holyrood, and the Regional Fisheries and Marine Centre in Lewisporte.

The Marine Institute’s mission is to foster economic development in strategic sectors of the Newfoundland and Labrador economy, particularly the fisheries and offshore, and to enable Newfoundlanders and Labradorians to participate in the marine industry nationally and internationally.

This mission provides for the development of the Institute as an industrially relevant institution, which is accomplished through its wide range of education and training, as well as its participation in research and development, technology transfer, and public policy advocacy initiatives. These activities, which are delivered through three specially focused schools—School of Fisheries, School of Maritime Studies, School of Ocean Technology—and several research and development centers, allow the Marine Institute to contribute to the economic development of the Atlantic Canadian region and the country.

In 2019, the Marine Institute launched its most recent strategic plan, Vision 2041: To the World. Vision 2041 serves to steer the Institute’s operations and future endeavours into the next two decades. Our vision for the future is simple:

To guide Newfoundland and Labrador to the world through global leadership in applied oceans education and research.

The Marine Institute has identified several goals as part of the implementation of this vision in the areas of: People, Technology, Knowledge Generation, Applied Academics, Industrial Solutions, and Mission-Oriented Planning. The Mission-Oriented Planning goals involve developing and implementing a comprehensive strategic framework across the Marine Institute’s management and organization functions to effectively articulate MI’s story and solidify its expanding global footprint. Internationalization, Finances, Alumni and Advancement, Enrolment, and most importantly Communications are the key areas for strategic development.

2. Project Overview

This proposal seeks government relations consulting services to support the Marine Institute in its goal of growing its academic and training programs, and research and development. Particularly, the Marine Institute is interested in increasing its visibility and elevating its conversations with the Government of Canada, particularly the Department of National Defence.

3. Scope of Services

The successful proponent will be expected to provide the following services:

3.1 Strategic Advice and Planning

- Work with the Marine Institute to understand the Institute's goals and priorities, and its current relationships and key markets.
- Develop a government relations strategy aligned with the Institute's goals.
- Provide ongoing strategic advice.

3.2 Stakeholder Engagement
