Student Member

Undergraduate and graduate students at a recognized academic institution with a focus on aging are welcome to become Student Members of ARC-NL. Student Members are expected to promote the ARC-NL as well as acknowledge ARC-NL in all publications, presentations, and interviews. ARC-NL Student Members support and actively participate in the Centre's activities and events which may include: delivery of academic or plain-language talks and participation in the Centre's annual meeting. Membership will be reviewed every two years.

Student Member Benefits

Networking: Access to ARC-NL newsletter; invitation to attend and participate in ARC-NL Annual Meeting; and frequent opportunities to share knowledge and participate in research with a network of researchers, health professionals, decision-makers, and community members across Newfoundland and Labrador.

Research Support: Access to lab facilities upon request; access to ARC-NL Participant Database; eligibility to apply for relevant ARC-NL funding opportunities (please refer to specific calls for further eligibility criteria).

Knowledge Translation Platforms: Your aging-related activities such as research, awards, and knowledge exchange to the institute will be promoted in our annual reports, newsletters, social media, and reports.
