Calendar Change Proposals

A memorandum was received from Dr. Stephan Curtis, Head, Department of History, requesting on behalf of the department, to introduce a new course, namely, History 4805: Sensory Experience in History.

It was moved by S. Rossignol, seconded by D. Wharram and carried that this request be approved for submission to Faculty Council.

DISCUSSION

Change to Scholarship Standing

A. Craig provided context. A change to the definition of Scholarship standing will be proposed by the Dean's Office of HSS. The change would decrease the required 30 credits hours in two semesters to 27 credit hours which would increase the pool of scholarship candidates. A. Craig will provide more information on this proposed change at the next Committee meeting.

HSS Strategic Framework

The Committee reviewed the framework and decided to concentrate their efforts on the articulation of the opportunities provided by HSS to secondary school and first-year students and their parents, secondary school instructors, and guidance counselors.

Initiatives would include establishing effective communication with these students. It was suggested to develop an APP or a buzz feed quiz, to help students determine how their interests can be met through HSS. Study in HSS will provide students with skills and competencies, which can be highlighted through our communications.

The initiatives are intended to convey the benefits of an HSS education to students, parents, and the general public by extension.

The Committee's second priority refers to the assessment of programs etc. (Bullet point #4). It was noted that students frequently do not know which HSS courses outside their departments are available to them. Consequently, some departments find that their senior undergraduate courses seldom have students from other departments, even in the absence of prerequisites. The committee is interested in exploring ways in which HSS students in general can be made aware of courses/study opportunities/foci of interest outside of their own departments.

Committee consensus seemed to be that administrative barriers to the design and implementation of new courses and programs were not unduly restrictive, and that resource issues posed greater challenges in this regard.

OTHER BUSINESS

It was determined to establish a subcommittee of approximately 4 – 5 members to work on this over the Spring/Summer term, working with Terri Coles, Communications Advisor. It was noted that if you would be interested in serving on this committee to contact charlenes@mun.ca.

New Registration Requirement for “Undeclared” Studies

A memorandum was received from Dr. Ailsa Craig, Associate Dean (Curriculum and Programs), Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, requesting on behalf of the Undeclared and Still Exploring Task group, to introduce a new general academic regulation that would mandate a registration hold on the accounts of undeclared students that have amassed at least 60 credit hours in courses.

These students would be required to gain admission to a degree program or meet with an academic advisor to clear the registration hold. In the latter case, the students would need to demonstrate to the advisor an appropriate and feasible plan by which they plan to gain admission to a degree program, and a suitable and realistic timeline within which to accomplish it. Clear and timely communication would take place to ensure that relevant students understand how they are impacted by this regulation, and the steps they need to take in order to have the registration hold lifted.

Undeclared students would be subject to additional registration holds after earning an additional 30 credit hours, and for every 30 credit hours thereafter, until they gain admission to a degree program. Students attending Memorial solely for the purpose of completing a diploma or certificate, or who are completing courses only for personal enrichment, would not normally be impacted by this regulation because they do not typically amass 60 credit hours; however, for the sake of clarity, they would be explicitly exempted from it. Students who have already earned an undergraduate degree and who are pursuing further credentials would likewise be exempt. However, students who have previously completed a diploma or certificate, and who are now planning to seek admission to a degree program, would be subject to the regulation.

Following consideration, it was moved by O. Moro, seconded by J. Lokash, and carried that this request be approved for submission to Faculty Council.

DISCUSSION

Bachelor of Technology proposal

The Bachelor of Technology proposal introduced an edit to their core course requirements for the program to include any first year English course as some students have completed University English courses prior to the CRW course requirements in the current calendar.

It was noted that English 1020 and 1021 does not meet the requirements of a CRW course. It was advised that this proposal will be brought to SCUGS and the CRW requirement will be discussed.

However, if there is a calendar change submitted for cancellation of the program, then it will be reviewed.

It was noted that the MPhil program will be discussed at the Head's meeting on October 21st and at the Faculty Council meeting in November.

Police Studies Major

A memorandum was received from Dr. Erwin Warkentin, Head, Department of Sociology, requesting on behalf of the department, to rename the current Police Studies Major program to the Criminology Major as well as introduce a Bachelor of Arts (Honours) in Criminology.

During discussion concerns raised include:

- One of the stated reasons for extending the scope of the program refers to the inclusion of the issues in corrections. However, no detail about the contacts with correctional officials have been provided. Can some additional explanations be requested and reviewed prior to approving the change?
- It was found that only one course in corrections (PLST2200) offered in this program. Given the inclusion of corrections into the scope of the program, more courses on this topic could and probably should be offered, it seems.
- Research methods courses listed on p. 322 are not comparable--SOC 3040 can be taken in conjunction with 3041 - a lab course - only (6 credits). POSC 3010 and STAT 2500 (3 credits each) do not involve any hands-on experience with collecting data. The listing should include comparable courses, I think. The same goes for the list on page 324.
- Section 15.18.10 – was it the intent that a criminology honours student use any 3000-level/4000-level SOCI course for the CRIM honours. For example the 4000-level oil & development course or the 3000-level media methods course?

Following consideration, it was moved by D. Wharram, seconded by O. Moro, and carried that this request be tabled until the next meeting when the department can provide further clarity on concerns raised.
