

FAREWELL FIELD NOTES

Over the summer the Pen ran Field Notes — a series of articles submitted by Dr. Marianne Stopp. Dr. Stopp, an archaeologist and historian who works at the National Historic Sites Directorate, Parks Canada, recounted her team's discoveries in St. Michael's Bay and what that meant to the history of the region. We say goodbye to Dr. Stopp and her team for the year but look forward to another series next summer. The hard-working crew of the 2010 St Michael's Bay archaeology project were (back) Chelsee Arbour, Laura-June Zinck, Kara Wolfe, Art Luther, and Edward Cadwell and in the front, Eva Luther, Marianne Stopp, Thomas McKenna and Rodney Turnbull with the ever-supportive Rocky the dog.
