✓ The Pinson Family. OF DAWLISH

This family was in the late 18th century well scattered in the area between teignmouth and Starcross, and inland as far as Chagford, and some settled as merchants in Dartmouth. The man who is said to be from Dawlish, was RICHARD Pinson, a Bye Boat Keeper at St Johns between 1771 and 1778. He did not return to Newfoundland after the American Revolutionary war, and his descendents (if any) must have remained in Devonshire.
