

Lee Butt (B.A – Memorial)

Lee is from Newfoundland, and studied English (major) and Classics (minor) during his undergraduate degree here at Memorial. He has always been interested in graphic novels as literature, and is now currently focusing his journal work in the Mphil Humanities program primarily on the superhero graphic novel. More specifically, his work investigates various themes and questions relating to the vigilante in superhero books, specifically the characters of Batman and Punisher and how traumatic events shape the vigilantism they eventually adopt.
