

Ethics Scenario # 2

Free and maintained consent of the participant

---

The Ergo-Team has identified the area of the plant where it wants to carry out its intervention but is having difficulty getting employee volunteers for the job analysis. One of them has a friend who works in that area of the plant who owes him a favour. He talks to that friend, reminds him that he owes him a favour and asks him to volunteer for the intervention.

Is this an ethical way to recruit employee volunteers?

See Scenario #2 ANSWER (click to link to document)