Reflection Conversations: A Supervisors Guide

Supervisors Role

When you hire MUCEP/ISWEP student, as the supervisor, it is important to mentor and train them. As the supervisor, we ask that the students receive a proper onboarding experience followed by check-in meetings. During the first day, the supervisor will establish expectation and objectives to the MUCEP/ ISWEP student employee(s). The follow-up feedback and check-ins will help the MUCEP/ ISWEP students achieve their goals and develop and gain essential competencies that they will use for their future academic studies and in their career endeavors. Feedback from students will provide the supervisor with insight into any challenges or questions the MUCEP/ ISWEP student may be having.

Sending out the questions before the conversation gives students an opportunity to think about their answers before they meet with you, leading to deeper and more authentic reflection.

Reflecting on what students are learning as a result of the MUCEP/ ISWEP position, can help you prompt MUCEP/ ISWEP students about their learning during the conversation.

It can often be difficult to give MUCEP/ ISWEP students the space to reflect on their learning. During these conversations you are providing direction for reflection, but the student is responsible for driving the conversation. Your job isn't to provide the correct answer, but rather provide the space for the student(s) to reflect and make connections.

Remind students why reflection is important and that you will continue to talk about learning in the workplace. Frequent reminders create an environment where learning is a key aspect of the MUCEP/ ISWEP student employment experience.

This document provides support and templates that will help supervisors have successful conversations about the skills student employee(s) will develop through their on-campus work.

Documentations

We encourage you every time you meet with the MUCEP/ ISWEP student employee(s) to document the conversation. This gives you a reference point on the progress of the student and enables you to see if there is a need for support or feedback.

Support

If you have questions or need support in the Check-in conversations with the MUCEP/ ISWEP student employee(s), please contact the On-Campus Employment Skills Awareness Project Coordinator; Mher Mardoyan, mmardoyan@mun.ca. We're happy to help over email, phone, or in-person.

Expectation and Commitment Document

This template is meant to be used at the beginning of the MUCEP/ ISWEP student's employment. It allows you to help the MUCEP student understand their responsibilities, what is expected of them, and how their role contributes to greater departmental and university goals. It is also an important opportunity to demonstrate your interest in the student's learning by asking about their goals and making connections between their tasks and the skills.

- Review the responsibilities and duties of the role
- Review any relevant departmental policies and outline any specific expectations
- Describe how the role contributes to departmental and institutional objectives
- Identify the skills/competencies you anticipate the MUCEP/ ISWEP student employee(s) will develop in this position and the job activities connected to each

Expectation and Commitment Document Questions

Supervisor:

Student Name:

MUCEP/ISWEP Job ID:

1. Why are you interested in this position?
2. What do you want to learn from this position?
3. How is this position related to your academic studies? Career goals?
4. How will this position benefit you professionally?

Please Note: Follow-up probes are questions you might add to help the student think more deeply. Probes are very helpful if the student doesn't seem to be able to think of an answer to one of the questions.

Examples include:

- Tell me more.
- Can you give an example(s)
- Can you elaborate?
- Why do you think that way?

First Check-in Conversation

The first check-in should occur after one month of the MUCEP/ ISWEP students' employment. Check-ins give you and the MUCEP/ ISWEP student employee(s) an opportunity to reconvene and clarify expectations, review skill progress, and reflect on learning.

- Connect what the student has accomplished so far to see whether the departmental goals and objectives are being met. What has been possible because of their contribution? Celebrate success
- Identify at least one skill/competency you have observed that the student has demonstrated. When you share, provide a specific example of how it has been demonstrated. (Refer to Student Success Competences)
- Identify one skill/competency that could be an area of growth for the MUCEP student employee(s). Provide feedback on where you could see potential for growth in that skill/competency within their work and identify any resources (mentors, other student staff, workshops, literature) that could support the student

In your reflection conversations, paraphrasing can bring relevance back to the conversation or reiterate the connections MUCEP/ISWEP students' have made about their learning.

First Check-in Questions

Supervisor:

Student Name:

MUCEP/ ISWEP Job ID:

1. What specific skills/competencies are you actively applying during your work? Was that what you anticipated?
2. Are you meeting your goals? Do you have any questions for me or need guidance?
3. What has been a success for you so far? What have you learned from that success?
4. What has been surprising or challenging in the work you have done so far?

Final Check-in Conversation

This template can be used to guide a final conversation. This gives you and your MUCEP/ ISWEP student the opportunity to reflect on the goals achieved, experiences gained, and feedback for the future.

- Connect what the student has accomplished so far to see whether the departmental goals and objectives were met. What has been possible because of their contribution?
- Identify at least one skill/competency you have observed that the student has exceeded expectations. When you share, provide a specific example of how it has been demonstrated
- Identify one skill/competency that could be an area of growth for the MUCEP student employee(s). Provide feedback on where you could see potential for growth in that skill/competency within their work and identify any resources (mentors, other student staff, workshops, literature) that could support the student
- Show appreciation for their work and contributions to your department
- Encourage students to post this experience in MORE

Final Check-in Questions

Supervisor:
